Professor Visits Florida State

Nobel Winner Knew Physics Greats

By Rosemary Smith
Office of Information Services

Throughout their lives, Dr. Paul A. M. Dirac and his family have known many of the great names in physics, among them, Dr. Albert Einstein.

"He was interested in all sorts of odd little problems," said Dirac, "and he was always very pleasant. He didn't want to cause any unnecessary work."

"Einstein hardly ever wore socks," reminisced Mrs. Dirac. "I think he thought it too much trouble for people to have to keep washing them. The only time I have ever seen Paul cry was when he learned that Einstein had died," she said.

Einstein constantly used a German translation of the classic book, The Principal of Quantum Mechanics, which Dirac wrote in 1930. Miss Margot Einstein, who still lives in the old family house in Princeton, N.J., tells of hearing her father, whenever he came upon a difficult problem, mutter to himself, "Where is my Dirac, where is my Dirac?"

The Diracs also knew the late J. Robert Oppenheimer, the American physicist who headed the Manhattan Project to build the atomic bomb during World War II and who was director for many years of the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton.

"I first met Oppenheimer in Germany when we stayed together in the same boardinghouse in Gottingen in 1926. He was one of the few Americans who liked to walk," said Dirac.

The Diracs spent four months at the University of Miami this year, while Dirac lectured at the University's Center for Theoretical Studies. In 1968 the Center awarded him the first Oppenheimer Memorial Prize for his pioneering work in physics.

Dr. Behram Kursunoglu, a former student of Dirac's and now director of the Center, describes him as "a super human being. He does not know how to dislike anybody ... he works and thinks constantly."

Dirac first came to the United States in 1929 and has traveled the country extensively, lecturing and studying at many of America's great universities. He has been a member of the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton for many years and stays there frequently.

The institute is a "paradise" for scholars because the staff takes great pains to make them comfortable. When Dirac's thoughtful walks through the surrounding woods were distracted by a noisy dog, the staff asked the owners to please keep the dog at home.

"Unfortunately, Tallahassee seems to be full of dogs," said Dirac. "When I was walking home one evening a dog came up and bit me. I walk home a different way now—across a field of horses."

Dirac's travels have taken him around the world, the first time in 1929 when he traveled from California to Japan to deliver a series of lectures there. To return to England, he had to travel across Siberia through Moscow.

"I have been on the Trans-Siberian Railway twice; in those days it was the fastest route between Europe and the Orient. The sea journey took many weeks longer. The last time we went to India and the Far East; however, we went by sea."

Last summer the Diracs spent the month of June at Florida State, then went to Italy to the International Center for Theoretical Physics at Trieste, returning to Tallahassee in September.

In January they will return to the University of Miami to spend the spring there, and probably spend the summer in Italy.

Publication Task Force Report Coming

By John Harrington
Staff Writer

Though the Task Force on Student Publications made its final decisions two weeks ago, final release of its report to the university community has been delayed for around two weeks, according to Task Force chairman Dr. Robert J. Kibler.

Dr. Kibler attributed the delay to the lack of clerical aid available in compiling the 75-page report.

"I would not do this job again without a full-time secretary," Kibler said.

Kibler said bids for the contract to print the report had been received Wednesday, and the report should be in the printer's hands today. Kibler estimated the printing time at two weeks.

Director of University Relations Pat Hogan concurred with Kibler, saying, "I would expect that it would be released to the university community before the end of the quarter."

Asked if he felt the report represented the ideas of all six members of the Task Force, Kibler said that while not all the members agreed completely on each issue, "We thrashed everything through until we felt this was the best judgement the group could make."

Task Force member Ed Stacker said he was satisfied with the contents of the report. "We interviewed persons from all areas of the university community that have dealings with student publications, and considerable research time was spent on the subject. It is my opinion that the final report will illustrate the hard work that went into it," Stacker said.

Marching Chiefs Winners In Tampa Half-time Show

By Alan Bailey
Staff Writer

The Florida State Marching Chiefs unanimously defeated the Houston Cougar Marching Band and earned themselves a right to be entered in the finals of the contest sponsored by Chevrolet to determine the best N.C.A.A. band in the country.

LES BROWN
. . . judges bands in Tampa (Jim Hicks)

The Chiefs displayed the colorful routine that they presented at the Homecoming game. "The contest is mainly a gimmick to get more people to watch the half-time show," said Robert Braunagel, director of The Marching Chiefs. "It did give the band a real lift."

Judges for the contest usually consist of one celebrity and two other men. The judges for Thursday night's contest were Les Brown from the Band of Renown, William Foster of Florida A&M University, and Jack Lee.

The bands were judged on their playing, uniformity, marching, as well as the general effect the band had on the audience.

The Chiefs will now be placed in competition with other bands that won during the half time shows of televised N.C.A.A. games on ABC.

On December 11th and 12th a group of judges will meet in Denver to compare notes, films, and information in an effort to determine the best band.

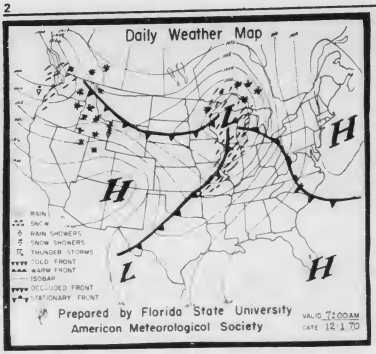

The band chosen will be given an all expense paid trip to the East–West Shrine Game on Christmas Day.

On the Florida State campus and surrounding areas we will have sunny skies and mild temperatures again, with a high today of 80 degrees. Tonight's low will be in the low 50s. No rain is expected in the next 24 hours.

Mild temperatures will continue from the Atlantic Coast to Michigan and east Texas, then cool or cooler temperatures west to the Pacific Ocean.

Showers mixed with snow are likely in the mountains in the Pacific states and the Great Basin. Snow is expected in Montana and the north and central Rockies. A chance of showers exists from the middle Mississippi Valley to the middle Atlantic states and on the Texas coast.

Window-Painting At Union Tomorrow

A Christmas window-painting contest will be held in the Union Art Lounge tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Winners will receive a season pass to next quarter's films.

Originally scheduled for Nov. 30, the contest was changed to Wednesday because of the holiday rush. The decorated windows will be judged at the end of the contest by the Union Committee of the Arts.

The painted windows will serve as decorations for the Union for the Christmas holidays and for the annual Madrigal Dinners held in the Union.

Since there are only 24 windows in the art lounge, it will be necessary to limit the number of participants in the contest. Two students may work on one window together. There is still space available to paint.

Anyone wishing more information or anyone wanting to reserve a window should call the Program Office at 599-2231 or 2232 as soon as possible.

Church Emphasizes Awareness

By Linda Goucher
Contributor

Functional architecture as an outlet for the expression of man's ideas and ideals is the prevalent theme taking shape in the moulded concrete structure that is to be the new Florida State United Methodist Chapel, to be known as the Chapel of the Upper Room.

The church's form, structure, and name will augment its two-fold purpose of encouraging and emphasizing a Christian community in the round and providing a utilitarian building where people can gather for more things than one worship service each week.

Architect Victor Lundy of New York was asked to design a church which would emphasize community awareness and oneness. His response was this unusual design which has been compared to an ark from the exterior because of its sweeping hull-shaped walls, and to an arena from the interior because the tiered seating is centered around the alter.

Yet there is tremendous honesty in its design, throughout which the form is true to the function. Where the wall starts curving, it does so not only for design but primarily for providing an area for the interior tiered seating. Likewise, the buttresses which form the corner arms of the structure serve the utilitarian purpose of being stairwells.

Throughout, this church can be viewed only as a whole, emphasizing the community oneness by the oneness of the structure. One architect has called the chapel an architectural monolith, being entirely made from reinforced concrete, except for the roof which displays a wooden ceiling.

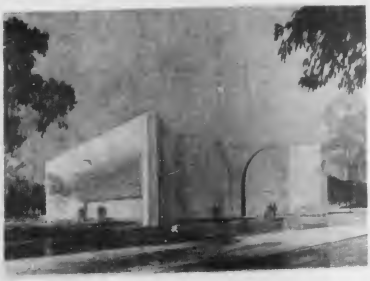

Perhaps the greatest expression of community oneness is found in the form of the interior seating circling the altar area. The congregation, by facing one another, is conduced to self awareness and personal dialogue rather than relying entirely on the minister to be the median of communication.

The seating arrangement will make it impossible for one not to see his fellow worshipper across the altar, thereby seeing God in his fellow man and his fellow man in God.

This centrally placed altar will express the ideal of the God who is in the community's midst, rather than One who is against the wall of a nave. The altar will also be removable to allow the building to be used as a theatre for drama, dance, open forums, and other important means of expression and communication besides worship.

The Chapel of the Upper Room expresses its hope in its name which recalls the event of the first Eucharist in the upper room of an inn. The spirit of Jesus' sharing of food, dialogue, and reconciliation in that upper room is to be the goal of the community which is to be housed in this chapel. The life-giving food of communion is to be shared over the altar table, and interpersonal dialogue is to be shared by the worshippers in hopes of the reconciliation of a black and white community of townspeople, faculty, staff and students from FSU and FAMU.

The $384,000 structure is scheduled for completion in February. The Revered Austin E. Hollady, Director-Minister of the Wesley Foundation, will serve as minister to the new congregation.

OPERATION TAKEOVER

Operation Takeover

Operation Takeover is an unusual attempt to involve students in the day-to-day rigors of radio broadcasting. Students will take over on-the-air duties on WFSU-FM from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on December 5 and 6.

The day-long programs will include documentaries, interviews, news and discussions. Topics will range from the "Lives of Ambulance Drivers" and "Over-Population" to the "Miami Dolphins," "Women's Liberation," and a "Review of Nixon's First Term." Between programs, students will air today's contemporary music.

Busch Opens Can Collection Center

An all-aluminum can collection center has been opened for Anheuser-Busch in Tallahassee to provide surrounding residents with a convenient location to redeem their aluminum beverage cans for ten cents a pound.

The center is located in Tallahassee at 939 West Gaines St. Donators can redeem their aluminum cans on Wednesdays from 1-5 in the afternoon.

After it has been donated, the aluminum will be delivered to Reynolds Metals Company's Can Reclamation Center in Jacksonville. Once there, the metal will be pelletized and shipped to Reynolds smelting plants for re-use.

Richard N. Bolling, general manager of Reynolds Metal's Recycling Division, commended Anheuser-Busch's program.

"With the additional collection centers being opened by Anheuser-Busch in Florida, there will be a location convenient to most any individual or organization wishing to participate in this anti-litter effort and get paid for doing so," Bolling said.

Proposed Consolidation

All interested members of the Tallahassee community are invited to attend a meeting on the proposed city-county consolidation by the Ad Hoc Committee on Fair Representation, today at 7:30 p.m. at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church on Gore Avenue.

Among the issues to be discussed at the meeting are the implications of the new consolidation proposal for a fair system of representation responsive to all groups in Leon County.

Other issues that may be discussed at the meeting include the personnel system provisions of the charter. Also, the committee will form work groups to examine the extent to which the new consolidation form of government will actually provide savings and eliminate overlap among present governmental units.

Personnel Reorganizes

The students in the graduate courses in higher education, organization and administration of student personnel services, will present their proposed reorganization of student personnel services at FSU.

The presentation will be held tomorrow from 9 to 11 a.m. in the parlor of Salley Hall.

The proposed plan will also view restructuring the organization patterns of the entire university.

WFSU Airs Opera Series

Metropolitan Opera broadcasts for the 1970-71 season will start on WFSU-FM, 91.5, with a performance of Donizetti's comic opera, Don Pasquale on Dec. 5.

The opera will be broadcast live from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House at the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York City. Starting time on the radio is 2 p.m.

Singers announced for principal roles in the opening broadcast include soprano Teri Grist, tenor Alfredo Kraus, baritone Tom Krause and bass Fernando Corena. Carlo Franci will conduct.

Veteran announcer Milton Cross will narrate the story of each week's opera. With the Dec. 26 broadcast of Verdi's Aida, Cross will start his 40th year of announcing the Saturday Met performances.

During the intermission periods between acts, the radio audience will be entertained by shorts such as "Opera News on the Air," opera quizzes, and "Biographies in Music." Occasionally Rudolf Bing, general manager of the Met, will take listeners on "behind the scenes" visits to the opera.

In addition to the opening broadcast of Don Pasquale, listeners will hear the following opers this month: Dec. 12, Tosca by Puccini; Dec. 19, Norma by Bellini and; Dec. 26, Aida by Verdi.

The rest of the season will hold new broadcasts of Beethoven's Fidelio on Jan. 2; Gluck's Orfeo et Euridice on Jan 9; Massenet's Werther on Mar. 27; and Wagner's Parsifal on Apr. 3. The weekly broadcasts will include 13 more famous operas during the season.

New Retirement System Available

Two briefing sessions are planned today in an effort to help university employees decide whether or not they wish to transfer to the new Florida Retirement System. The sessions will be held in Moore Auditorium.

All state and county employees whose checks show Social Security deductions, including the majority of staff at Florida State, can transfer to the new Florida Retirement System on Dec. 1, according to a ruling just released by Attorney General Earl Faircloth.

Set for 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., the briefing sessions will give both full-time staff and shift workers an opportunity to have questions answered about the new plan. Specific questions can also be referred to the personnel office, at 599-4510.

Cornell Dunlap, employment manager at Florida State, said the next opportunity to transfer to the new system will come between April 15 and June 1, 1971.

Human Therapy Offers Jobs

Mrs. Julia Hindle, coordinator for the mentally retarded and handicapped at the new Human Development Center in Charlotte, North Carolina, will be interviewing prospective employees for the Center.

Mrs. Hindle will conduct interviews from 9 to 12 noon today in Room 121 in the Education Building. Training in psychology and child development is emphasized.

Employees will work in a day care program which provides evaluation programming, therapy, and training for mentally retarded and handicapped persons of all ages in the community.

Harding Chorus Performs Here

The Harding College Chorus, which recently completed a tour of Europe, will perform tonight at 8 in Moore Auditorium.

The program, entitled "Hymns from Harding" is open to members of the FSU and Tallahassee communities. There is no admission charge.

Harding College is a private, liberal arts college, located in Searcy, Ark.

Art Students Exhibit Work

An exhibition of student work will be shown at the lower gallery of the Fine Arts Building tonight at 7:30.

The exhibition will include work of students that are currently candidates for Bachelor's and Master's of Fine Arts (MFA) degrees.

Students included in MFA work shown will be Marge Scott, Chris Kennedy and Gail Culp.

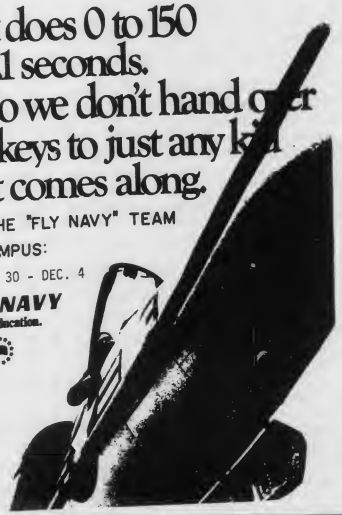

Undergraduates whose work will be shown include Trudy Griffin, P. T. Turk and John Gurbacs.

The exhibition is free and open to the public.

Damage Done

After his arrest for possession of marijuana, Chuck Sherman, FSU student body president, is in much the same situation as was U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy after the Chappaquidick Island tragedy.

Because both men are significant personalities—Sherman as student body president of a major university and Kennedy as a United States senator and surviving son of the controversial Kennedy family—their cases received extraordinary publicity. In the case of Sherman, what should have been worth no more than a brief mention in the Pensacola newspapers was picked up by the wire services and carried nationwide. In the case of Kennedy, the story of an automobile accident with one fatality, ordinarily fair game only for Massachusetts newspapers, was carried worldwide.

After Chappaquidick Island, many people condemned everything Sen. Kennedy ever had done or stood for. After the arrest of Sherman last week, many people are condemning everything he ever did or stood for. "It turns out that Sherman was a kook all along," one student said after reading the Flambeau story of Sherman's arrest. The student, no doubt, expressed the sentiment of many others.

This is the most tragic similarity in the controversies over Sherman and over Chappaquidick Island. Everything accomplished in the past, regardless of its significance or merit, becomes suspect.

Sherman has not been a "kook all along." His administration has shown initiative and a willingness to respond to student desires and needs—more so than previous Student Government administrations. Student Government accomplishments under Sherman include: establishment of the Center for Participant Education, which has provided courses leaning to the left as well as the right; initiation of a lawsuit on behalf of the Young Socialists Alliance, an attempt to revise the university's outdated recognition-non-recognition system; establishment of a day-care center; and concerted efforts to bring speakers of divergent viewpoints to campus, including, on the one hand, Abbie Hoffman, and, on the other, John Rudd, Leon County prosecutor.

These accomplishments are far from those of an administration headed by a kook. But they are suspect because of Sherman's arrest.

His arrest has had other repercussions. It has, no doubt, embarrassed the university in some quarters, especially among members of the Board of Regents and the State Legislature. But any adverse reaction from the Regents or Legislature is tempered somewhat by the view of such reputable authorities as former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark that the use of marijuana should be legalized—that what Sherman is accused of doing isn't such a crime.

In addition, Sherman's arrest has made doubtful the election in the near future of another student body president whose hair is a bit long and whose political views are a bit to the left.

The consensus after much discussion of Sen. Kennedy's action at Chappaquidick Island is that Kennedy showed a lack of discretion whether he was driving when he had had too much to drink, or unavoidably swerved off the road and then panicked, or whatever.

Sherman's arrest not only undermined what he has accomplished, but the accomplishments of others working for the same goals. Sherman must set to work now to repair the damage—as did Sen. Kennedy.

ACTION LINE

Q. The Flambeau's coverage of intramurals on the FSU campus has now reached a new level of shoddiness and inefficiency. I am referring to the article in Monday's Flambeau dealing with the Independent Division of the intramural basketball tournament. Although the games in the first round were played on Thursday of last week, the Flambeau sports department had little or no knowledge of what went on. Not only did the writer of the article not list scores of the games, he did not even know who the winners were.

Over 200 FSU students are involved in the intramural basketball tournament in the Independent Division alone. The best way for them to keep up with how they are doing in relation to other teams should be through the student newspaper. Their student activities fees help to fund the Flambeau. How about giving them their money's worth?
Roger N. Messer

A. Student activities money does not give the Flambeau enough money for a sufficient staff to cover the major sports much less intramurals and must rely on the Intramurals Office for the information. There was a mix-up in communication.

Phony Doctrine

By Gerald Sternstein

The Nixon Doctrine and its plans for a new look in American foreign relations is now two years old and deserves close scrutiny.

In February of last year, Mr. Nixon sent to the Congress a $2 billion foreign aid package. It provided for many forms of military assistance that were in keeping with the Doctrine, de-emphasized direct military involvement by United States forces.

Also in keeping with the Doctrine, Mr. Nixon proposed his Middle East peace formula. However, that has not quite worked out. Before the grandiose plan, the Middle East looked like this: Egypt was being supplied heavily with new military hardware from Russia. Russia was sending new and sophisticated missiles but because of daily Israeli raids across the canal, they were not installed.

During this period, the United States maintained the position that the balance of power in the Middle East, while threatened, was not destroyed by the massive Soviet arms shipments.

Mr. Nixon's cease fire plan ended all speculation on whether or not there was an imbalance of power in the Middle East. With some pretty nifty arm-twisting, the United States prevailed upon Israel to accept a cease-fire without inspection and based on good faith only. The result was predictable; within 48 hours, the Egyptians had moved Russian missiles into place which it could not have done if the cease-fire had not been in effect.

The result was an even greater imbalance and that imbalance was costly. Last week, Mr. Nixon announced another supplementary aid bill of $1 billion; over one-half of that amount to go to Israel to "restore the balance of power in the Middle East." The great plan is still in effect but peace is no nearer now than before and with the shakey cease-fire, one wonders if it ever will come.

The Nixon Doctrine has had other smashing successes since its inception. Foremost was the Cambodian "incursion." This, of course, while not following the "Nixon Doctrine," was justified in the usual terms that are used each time, an exception to any formula is made. That was simply, that "it was necessary to protect the armed forces of the United States and their vital interests in the area of operation," whatever that is.

This "incursion," as the White House likes to call it, cost hundreds of lives, destroying a once peaceful country which was willing to live with the communists as somewhat hostile guests. The United States junked the "Doctrine" for the "incursion" because it fit the moment. The junk now smells from raw sewage. A nation once at peace now fights for its life because the United States felt it expedient to involve it in a war which it neither wanted nor can now win without massive U.S. support.

At the time of Cambodia, we were told it would shorten the war in Vietnam to bring our boys home sooner. Nothing will do that quicker than immediate withdrawal. Nothing will do that quicker than the mothballing of a phony doctrine.

Just how phony that doctrine is was revealed three times in the last weeks.

First came the announcement that the United States would supply the military dictatorship of Greece with $24 million in military aid; a country which has suspended all traces of democratic or representative government since its bloody overthrow of the parliamentary monarchy over three years ago.

Second was the announcement that the United States, for the first time since 1965, would send military aid to Pakistan; aid which President Johnson cut off when it was apparent that it was the main support for both sides in the Kashmir War between India and Pakistan. It is encouraging that the Nixon Doctrine is cognizant of past history.

That war, to this day, is unresolved. And just as it was American tank and plane against American tank and plane in 1965, the Nixon Doctrine seeks to retain the monopoly.

Finally, there was the air-raid on North Vietnam. The "Doctrine's" biggest triumph yet. "The lessons of 45,000 dead boys shall be repeated," said our raid last week. The loss of 1,000 planes and 800 men captured, in three years of bombing which failed to achieve any quick end to the war, shall be repeated. The "Doctrine" was junked once again for political expedience. I suggest that we hear no more of what now appears to be the "Phony Doctrine." Let us start seeing real progress towards a program that will fulfill Nixon's pledge to make this "a decade of peace."

A switch on after-game meals was suggested by Mrs. Ho, who said that students might phone the restaurant requesting anything from egg roll to shrimp on toast.

"We hope, eventually, to be able to serve special season dishes," said Mrs. Ho, suggesting that traditional Occidental holidays might be celebrated with a decidedly Chinese cuisine.

"When most Americans think of Chinese food," said Dr. Ho, "they think of chop suey or chow mein—we do not make either food here."

Two features of Bamboo Garden cooking include the total use of fresh foods in meal preparation and a great use of the wok, a concave cooking pan.

"All of our dishes we make fresh," said Mrs. Ho. "We never use frozen food. Nothing that is left over is ever used again." Many of the special ingredients needed for food preparation are ordered from New York and Miami, she said.

"One secret of Chinese cooking is the wok," said Mrs. Ho. "Most American pans are too flat. In the wok, foods are fried at very high temperatures, with very little oil. In that way, foods are very crisp."

According to Mrs. Ho, meal prices range from $2.50 to $4, including the popular sweet and sour pork, barbecued spare ribs and chicken with cashew nuts.

Special Display In Art Gallery

Christmas at the Florida State art gallery in the Fine Arts Building will be celebrated with a display of medieval sculpture set on a Florentine altar.

The exhibit of 16th-century sculpture, including a pair of Italian angel candelabras, an Italian madonna and North German carved wooden saints, will be mounted on the 18-foot reproduction of a Florentine-style church altar. White poinsettias will also decorate the scene which will be displayed in the two-story entrance hall of the gallery.

People of Tallahassee and the university community are invited to attend a special opening show which will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. tomorrow. The exhibit will be on display through Dec. 11 when the gallery closes for the holidays. The altar, however, will still be visible through the gallery's main entrance doors.

Holiday Death Toll

Final figures Monday showed 629 Americans died in traffic accidents during the four-day Thanksgiving holiday, a figure well below pre-holiday estimates of the death toll by the National Safety Council.

The council had predicted 670 to 770 persons would be killed on highways during the peak travel period that extended from 6 p.m. local time Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

The lower holiday period death toll is in line with a year-long trend of fewer highway deaths—even though there are 3.8 million more cars on the road and 3 million more licensed drivers, a safety council spokesman said.

1970 Census Completed

WASHINGTON—After checking and double checking, the Census Bureau reported Monday that the 1970 U.S. population was 204,765,770—a gain of 25 million over 1960 which will require the reshuffling of congressional seats in 14 states.

The decade's gain of 25,442,595 Americans was second only to the 28 million gained in 1950-60. But on a percentage basis, the 13.3 percent increase was the second lowest since the 7.3 percent gain of 9 million in 1930-40.

The population gain, combined with population shifts, meant that five states will gain representation in the House of Representatives, while nine others will lose representation.

California, the biggest gainer in population, will add five House seats. Florida will get three more and Arizona, Colorado and Texas will gain one each.

Telescope Going In Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY—An Atlas Centaur rocket was primed for the launch late Monday of the world's most powerful space telescope in an $83 million effort to give astronomers their sharpest look at the universe.

The countdown moved smoothly toward a 5:30 p.m. EST blastoff.

The 4,680-pound Stargazer, third of four Orbiting Astronomical Observatories (OAO), carried a 38-inch diameter telescope that will look at stars that heretofore have been very faint to astronomers. Astronomer Albert Bogess said its primary objective will be to study stellar evolution.

Pope In Australia

SYDNEY—Pope Paul VI, fatigued by the whirlwind pace of his Asia-Pacific tour, appeared to draw new vigor Monday from the cheers of thousands who greeted him in Australia—the halfway point on his mission to lands never before visited by a Pope.

The 73-year-old spiritual leader of the world's 600 million Roman Catholics looked tired and hollow-eyed as he stepped onto Australian soil for a two-day visit after a long flight in his special jetliner from Samoa.

Regents Set Requirements

The uniform minimum requirements for admission to graduate degree programs in the Florida university system were recently adopted by the Board of Regents.

The admission policy provides that a first-time graduate student or a transfer student must have a bachelor's degree or equivalent from an accredited university and meet at least one of the following criteria.

The applicant should have earned a B average or better in all work attempted while registered as an upper division student working for a baccalaureate degree. Also, the student must have a total quantitative-verbal Graduate Record Examination score of 1,000 or higher or an equivalent measure approved by the Board of Regents.

FSU Cagers Open Season

urham Lists hree Sophs s Starters

Coach Hugh Durham sends highly touted Florida State sketball team into action in season opener for the 70-71 basketball season night. The Seminoles are ed to play the University of as in Austin, Texas.

Opening with some of the pre-season credentials of previous Seminole team, will field a starting team e features none of the ers from last year's team. ham feels, however, that this has the potential of being stronger than last year's.

At the point will be Otto a little 5-7 playmaker Louisville, Ky., who as a man averaged more than 14 t per game as well as 119 points per contest Pete Petty will be playing in place of Skip Young, who t out for at least another

Petty's high school teammate, King, is possibly the most regarded roundballer in South this season. As a man last season King broke of the scoring records on the as at FSU, and many ader analysts say he has the ential to do even more on the , where he will start at the position.

the annual Garnet and game last week, King was high scorer in the contest, ing up 22 big points.

One of tonight's starters who quite a bit of action last will be Vernell Ellzy, the senior in the quintet. Ellzy aged a little over 10 points 969-70 and will be counted to fill the low post spot n was manned last year by e Williams, now playing for Boston Celtics of the onal Basketball Association. Rowland Garrett, a 6-7 , is the starter at the other opposite King. Garrett saw ed action last year on the y, averaging a little over points a contest.

VERNELL ELLZY

. . . only senior starting for Tribe basketball team against Texas

The other starter on the squad, however, could be the key to the success of the team. He is Reggie Royals, the 6-10 center from North Carolina who as a freshman averaged 22 points a game and 23 rebounds and was the star of the Garnet and Gold game as he scored 18 and pulled in 18 caroms.

Texas features a team much like the Seminoles in that most of the players will be competing in their first varsity game. The Longhorns will be starting three juniors and a pair of sophomores.

Eric Coscurth and Lyn Howden will be the returning starters, both averaging around 13 points a game last year. New members on the team will be B. G. Brosterhous at center and Jimmy Blacklock and Mike Dukes at the guard posts. Blacklock is a junior college transfer.

"We don't have much height," said Durham, "but I think we will make up for that in quickness and jumping ability. If we don't we will hold our own on the boards."

"It is really a young team and I don't know just how they are going to react in that first game. I expect a lot of questions will be answered out on the floor."

FSU has been named by many basketball magazines as one of the top teams in the nation. Sports Illustrated named the Seminoles No. 14 in its pre-season poll.

Frosh Open Vs. NFJC

Florida State's 1970-71 freshman team will be unveiled tonight when they travel to Madison, Fla. to take on North Florida Junior College in a basketball game at 8 p.m.

Though this will be the first clash for the FSU team, North Florida JC will be taking part in its seventh game. Its record so far in the campaign is 5-2 with a third place finish recently in the annual JC District One Tipoff Tournament.

Future Seminole foe Gulf Coast Junior College won that tourney and Indian River JC took second.

NFJC will feature a freshman-dominated team with several highly sought players on the squad. Robert Thomas, standing at 6-6, will be the center while former Florida High star Robert Newlin, also 6-6, will be at the high post.

Other North Florida stars will be Larry Cohn, 6-4, at a wing, Jim Albright, 6-3, at the other wing and 6-1 Earnest Kix at the point.

Starting for the Seminoles will be little 5-9 Gary Corbin at the point guard, all-America

Several members of the rida State tennis team ticipated in two open naments this past weekend, g first in one and losing in emi-finals in the other.

n the Sheraton Beach mpionships the big match between 57-year-old Gardner oy, the national senior 55 mpion, and Ricardo Bernd, lian Davis Cup winner and freshman. In the semi-final ayoffs between the two ers, Mulloy won 4-6, 6-3 and 7-5. Although in the third Bernd had a 3-1 lead, he couldn't hold it. Next spring Bernd will start in the number one slot for FSU.

Also in the Sheraton tournament Bernd had defeated Tom Hauser, number seven for University of Miami, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 and Sven Ginman, number six of Miami, 6-1, 6-3 to earn the semi-final playoff.

Bob Boland (FSU) defeated Ben Bishop (Miami) 6-7, 6-4, 6-3 and then lost to Mulloy. In the finals of doubles Bernd teamed up with Robert Marcher, a former FSU player, to defeat the Miami pair of Joe Bouquin and Esteban Fillol 6-2, 6-4.

The other open tournament was the Coral Gables Junior Tennis Championships held at Salvadore Park. Florida State placed first in that match in both singles and doubles.

Cowboys' Rentzel Charged With Indecent Exposure

DALLAS (UPI)—Police Friday filed indecent exposure charges against Dallas Cowboy flanker Lance Rentzel in an incident involving a 10-year-old girl. Rentzel's attorney posted a $1,500 bond.

The charge carries a maximum punishment of 15 years in prison.

It was the second time in Rentzel's six-year career as a National Football League player that he had been charged with an offense involving children.

Rentzel, husband of entertainer Joey Heatherton, was not available for comment.

"We have been informed that Lance Rentzel was charged this morning," said Cowboy president Tex Schramm. "Because of legal ramifications we have been advised not to comment at this time."

Cowboy officials met for more than two hours before the "no comment" statement was released.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle also declined immediate comment.

The incident allegedly occurred Nov. 19 in suburban University Park.

University Park Police Chief Forrest Keene said the complaint stated Rentzel stopped his car in front of a house and asked directions from the girl playing in front of the home.

The complaint alleged that when the girl walked toward the car Rentzel opened the car door and exposed himself to her.

Rentzel was charged by police in St. Paul, Minn. in 1966 with disorderly conduct for allegedly exposing himself to children.

He pled guilty to that charge and his sentence was probated.

The next season Rentzel was traded from the Minnesota Vikings to Dallas for a draft choice.

Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade said Rentzel was not present Monday when bond was posted in his behalf.

"We recommend bond be set in this case," Wade said. "Punishment could range from one day in jail to 15 years in prison. Of course probation could be recommended."

Although the complaint was filed the day of the alleged incident, the formal charges were delayed for 12 days. There was no explanation why.

Rentzel started the Cowboys' last game Thanksgiving Day against Green Bay, seven days after Cowboy officials were notified a complaint had been filed against him.

Rentzel made two key plays—a crucial catch and an end around run—which set up two Dallas field goals.

Thus far in the 11 regular season games of the 1970 season Rentzel had caught 35 passes for 841 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Dirac Modest About Achievements

By Rosemary Smith
Office of Information Services

Dr. Paul Dirac is extremely modest when asked to talk about his own contributions to the field of physics. On the subject of the development of quantum mechanics, he commented, "In those days the subject was so open and only a handful of people were engaged in such studies; it was easier to develop ideas than now.

"It was pure chance that I discovered the correct way to combine Einstein's theory of relativity with the new wave and matrix mechanics of Schroedinger and Heisenberg. Anyone could have done it."

His solutions to the problem resulted in an elegant equation now known to all physicists as the Dirac equation. Dirac himself, however, always refers to it as the "relativistic wave equation for spin one-half particles."

A further consequence of his theory was the existence of negative energy solutions to the equations. Dirac believed that these negative energy states perhaps would correspond to the existence of anti-particles and, sure enough, shortly after the prediction was made, the first of the anti-particles, the "anti-electron," was discovered in the cosmic radiation.

There is now even speculation that regions of the universe may be built up of anti-matter and its properties are such that, if sometime in the future, the United States should send a space probe made of matter from earth into such a region of space, it would be completely annihilated in a violent explosion.

In 1931, Dirac also postulated the existence of the isolated magnetic pole and he refined this idea of a "monopole" in 1948. Everyone is familiar with the fact that all magnets have two poles—a north one and a south one, but Dirac's equations showed that if a single magnetic pole did exist, it would explain in a natural way why the electronic charge is quantitized—a phenomenon that has puzzled scientists for decades.

The search for the Dirac monopole is now going on and perhaps the best chance for its discovery will be in a series of experiments planned to take place when the great new "atom smasher" is completed at the National Accelerator Laboratory outside Chicago some two years from now. In the meantime, scientists from NASA have been looking through the lunar rocks brought back by the Apollo mission to see if they contain any monopoles.

Another of Dirac's pet theories concerns the origin of the universe and the fact that the gravitational constant may be changing slowly with time. This is also under investigation by experimentalists around the world.

LOST IN THOUGHT—President Stanley Marshall contemplates a student's question at an information table yesterday.

By Suspended Students

Marshall Will Hear Appeals

Sit-in At Westcott?

By Alan Bailey
Staff Writer

Members of the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) plan to hold a sit-in at 3 p.m. in Westcott if President Stanley Marshall refuses to reverse the suspensions of eight students involved in the demonstration protesting Marine recruiting on campus.

SMC members plan to meet with Marshall at 10 a.m. to offer a final plea to gain reversal of the decision of the University Committee on Student Conduct suspending the eight students. The SMC will inform Marshall of the sit-in if he does not reverse the Committee's verdict.

Plans for the sit-in were discussed at Monday's SMC meeting. Possible courses of action were discussed in the event administrative officials should try to evict from Westcott the students taking part in the sit-in.

Gerard Fowler, dean of disciplinary and judicial affairs, stated that the students involved in the sit-in would be subject to suspension. If suspensions were made, said Fowler, the students would be subject to arrest for trespassing, as they would not be students.

Fowler said the students who have already been suspended would probably be expelled from the University if they participated in the sit-in.

A rally is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. on Landis Green followed by a march around campus to gain support for the sit-in. Students will then proceed to Westcott for the sit-in.

By Sid Smith
Staff Writer

President J. Stanley Marshall will speak individually with any of the twelve students recently charged with disrupting the activities of Bryan Hall on Sept. 28, Vice President for Student Affairs Robert Kimmel said in a special letter to the Flambeau yesterday.

Marshall will talk with the students by appointment on Dec. 2, 3, and 4 about any special circumstances which the students believe should be considered before the final decision concerning the appeals. Student Defender John Antoon may accompany the students if they wish, Kimmel said.

Kimmel stated as the purpose of his letter to the Flambeau the clarification of the many comments about the suspension, trial and appeal that he has received. In addition to his statement concerning Marshall, Kimmel outlined in the letter the rules and legal procedures involved in charging the twelve students and bringing them to trial.

Kimmel cited time as the primary factor resulting in the controversial decision to hold the hearings in groups of four students per session. Each student was initially scheduled for an individual hearing, Kimmel said.

Kimmel said that the cases were originally referred to the Honor Court. The Chief Judge ruled that he had jurisdiction only over the penal and honor codes, not the Rights and Responsibilities section of the Pow Wow, and the cases were then referred to the University Committee on Student Conduct, consisting of twelve members evenly divided between students and faculty.

The three-man panels were then selected by lot, with the stipulation that no more than two members of one panel could come from the student or faculty group of the committee.

Kimmel pointed out that each of the panels contained one student who had signed a petition which stated that the students should be reinstated in the university and that all charges should be dropped.

Sherman Won't Be Suspended

Dean Gerard Fowler, dean of disciplinary and judicial affairs, announced yesterday that Student Government President Chuck Sherman will not be suspended from the university, pending final disposition of his case.

Sherman faces narcotics charges stemming from his arrest Thanksgiving night in Gulf Breeze, when he was found with a pouch of about half an ounce of marijuana, according to Gulf Breeze Chief of Police Gerald Rich. Arraignment date has been set for December 7 in Santa Rosa County.

Under Board of Regents policy, state university officials reserve the option to suspend any student arrested for drug charges.

"He will continue as a student until final adjudication of the court case," said Pat Hogan, director of university relations.

"This case has been handled very similarly to other student cases of this nature in the past," he said.

Acting on legal advice, Sherman himself has not yet released a statement concerning his own stand in the matter.

Art Stolen Again

By Kim Rogers
Entertainment Editor

"I am apparently the most recent victim of a very knowledgeable print collector," said Mrs. Georgia Cash, referring to the recent theft of a print collection valued at $900 from her desk in the art department's graduate carrel.

Mrs. Cash, a graduate student in art history, discovered the loss on Nov. 23. "I suppose," she said, "that the prints were stolen during the preceding weekend."

According to Mrs. Cash, the prints had been brought to the Fine Arts Building to illustrate a lecture in a "History of Graphics" class, and were subsequently stolen from her desk drawer.

Included in the theft were prints by Kuniyoshi, Kumisada, Morikuni, Sukenobu, and a small Chinese painting.

Also stolen were reproductions by Hiroshige, Harunobu and Ytamaro.

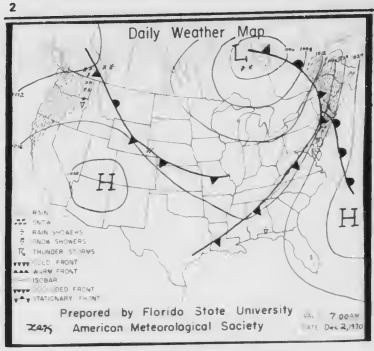

Apparently someone who knows something about prints is amassing a really great print collection," said Mrs. Cash, referring to a string of recent thefts made from the Fine Arts Building and art department.

In May, 1970 a Goya valued at $350 and Durer valued at $800 were stolen from the London Grafica exhibit at FSU. In October of 1970 a Picasso print valued at $1,500 was stolen from a similar exhibit, and an Ernst etching marked at $500 was also stolen.

During the October opening of the FSU art gallery, a Braque lithograph valued at $1,200 was stolen from the gallery. "It was lifted right off the wall," said Mrs. Cash.

Art faculty member William Walmsley was the victim of a March theft from his office desk, from which etchings by Rembrandt, Adrian Von Ostade

flambeau weather

By Langdon Kellogg
Flambeau Meteorologist

Continued warm weather is expected in the Tallahassee area through tomorrow. There will be an increase in cloudiness this afternoon and a chance of a thundershower late in the afternoon as a very weak cold front approaches the area.

The high today should be in the upper 70s and the low tonight about 50.

Across the nation a strong south and southwest flow of warm air feeding into a low center over Minnesota brought record warmth to much of the Midwest.

Occasional snow and colder air flowed southward behind the Minnesota storm across the northern Plains and the northern Rockies. Mild weather prevailed from the southern Plains to the South Atlantic and Mid-Atlantic states.

Caving Club Explores Pit

Ellen Scott and Ken Meredith of the FSU Caving Club joined seven other students from West Georgia College and Indiana University to explore Ellison's Cave, located south of Lafayette, Ga.

Ellison's cave is the longest cave in Georgia and is the deepest pit in the U.S. Drops of 510 feet, 125 feet and 20 feet are featured.

"It is pretty spectacular. You see the lights of the other cavers on the bottom and they don't get any bigger for the longest time," said Miss Scott.

Miss Scott said she had no trouble making the 15-minute 510-foot drop, but that "I almost fell down in the 20-foot hole."

ZPG: Community Discussion

A panel discussion on the "Problems of Overpopulation" will be held tonight at 7:30 in the auditorium of the downtown Tallahassee Federal Savings and Loan Association. The panel will be sponsored by the Tallahassee chapter of Zero Population Growth.

The panel includes Dr. Miley Miers, Florida House of Representatives, speaking on the legislative aspects of the topic; James Doyle, Department of Urban and Regional Planning, speaking on the diminishing food supplies and natural resources; and Dr. Donald Rapp of the FSU Institute of Human Development speaking on the family and personal aspects of overpopulation.

The discussion will be open to audience participation and is to be the first of a series of similar discussions.

For further information contact Mrs. Loring Lovell, chairman of the Tallahassee chapter of Zero Population Growth, at 576-1367.

'Project Cheer'

Fifty volunteers are needed to work with the Leon County Mental Health Association's "Project Cheer." The work will consist mainly of wrapping gifts and answering the telephone.

Anyone interested please contact Miss Carolyn Aidman, executive director for volunteer placement, any Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 8:30 til noon. Call 222-4211 or 222-4214 or come to 216 E. Jefferson St.

FAMU Library Films: 'The Black Frontier'

Exodusters, one of four color films in the series The Black Frontier, will be shown at Florida A&M on Dec. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

The film will be followed by refreshments and a record hop. The public is invited to attend, a spokesman for the sponsor, the FAMU library, said.

Depicting the period after the Civil War, Exoduster portrays black men who realize their bondage has not really been lifted and move westward to search for a new life.

Thousands of former slaves were organized by Benjamin "Pap" Singleton for the migration. Descendents of families that participated in the march still live in the towns which were started. Some of these people are featured in the film.

NASA Sponsors Lecturer

Gerhard B. Heller of the Marshall Space Flight Center near Huntsville, Ala. will present a physics colloquium entitled "Scientific Results of Apollos 11 and 12" Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in Room 275 Chemistry Lecture Hall. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Heller is director of the Space Science Laboratory at the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, which is the largest field center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

The current projects of the Center include Saturn launch vehicles, the Lunar Roving Vehicle for riding on the moon's surface, and the Skylab Program which includes the first U.S. embryonic space station and manned solar observatory.

Heller has worked on many aspects of rocket propulsion, satellite technology, trajectories, tracking and instrumentation and thermodynamics research. He participated in the Apollo-Saturn project from its inception. He has studied also the thermophysical properties of the moon and the planets and has worked on planetary remote sensing by infrared and ultraviolet radiation measurements.

Heller has published extensively on the subjects of thermal problems of space vehicles, electric propulsion, lunar infrared investigations and astronomy. He was editor of two volumes of the AIAA series Progress in Astronautics and Aeronautics. He received his master of science degree in physics from the Institute of Technology, Darmstadt.

Ecology Today

Paul Ehrlich, author of The Population Bomb, says, "We must, as the first step, get a majority of Americans to recognize the simple choice: lower the birth rate or face a drastic rise in the death rate.

"We must divert attention from the treatment of symptoms of the population explosion and start treating its cause. We have no more time; we must act now. Next year will not do. It is already too late for us to survive unscathed. Now we must make decisions to minimize the damage."

According to Zero Population Growth, an organization set up to help find solutions and enact action to alleviate the population problem, "Using the present population growth rate, the population will increase by 50% in the next 30 years, the world's population will double in 35.

"The problems of today, pollution, crowding, apathy and shortages of basic needs and facilities, will give way to more severe problems such as wars, famine, disease and death if we fail to heed the present warnings."

Zero Population Growth will be sponsoring a panel discussion tonight at the downtown office of the Tallahassee Federal Savings and Loan Association at 7:30.

Mr. Jim Doyle from the FSU urban and regional planning department will speak on the U.S. and world food shortage. Dr. Miley Miers, state representative, will discuss abortion legislation and Dr. Don Rapp, assistant head of the Institute of Human Development, will talk on the personal aspects of overpopulation.

Rides to and from the meeting are available. Students should meet in front of Westcott by 7 tonight. Refreshments and literature will be available.

and Toulouse-Lautrec were stolen.

Stolen from a Dodd Hall exhibit earlier in the year were etchings by Bonnard and Goya, and a Durer woodcut.

The total value of the prints, etchings, lithographs and woodcuts stolen this year is over $5,000, according to Mrs. Cash.

An important item missing from the art department is a Picasso exhibition poster done in reds and yellows.

Foreign Flair To Christmas Meal

By Ann Frechette
Staff Writer

Turkey and dressing, spaghetti and lasagna, chop suey and chicken chow mein, 100 foreign students and the women in Deviney Hall all add up to a big Christmas buffet.

Deviney Hall is sponsoring the dinner this year with an invitation to the foreign students to join in and bring a dish from their native country.

"Each floor in the dorm is bringing one course to the buffet, from rolls to vegetables to turkeys to salads," said Carol Neale, chairman of the dinner.

"Invitations were sent to 100 foreign students asking them to bring a dish from their native country," continued Miss Neale, "and over 250 people are expected to attend."

Following the dinner will be a tree-trimming party and the women who live in the dorm were busy during the Thanksgiving holidays making ornaments and stringing popcorn.

"One of the main purposes of the dinner," said Miss Neale, "is to bring together these people from various cultures with the Deviney girls to celebrate Christmas."

Santa Claus will also be on hand to greet the students and watch over the Christmas festivities.

Student Support

Last Thursday night, our Seminole football team lost an important match. The game started badly for us, changed for the better, and then suddenly soured completely. A great deal was missing from the team during the last half in the way of successful play-calling and execution.

It appeared that the FSU squad was tired and had lost its spirit completely during the last two periods of play. Perhaps more reasons for the defeat can be found than simply a bad day for the team. Is it possible that a lack of spirit on the part of the people watching the game affected the players in any way?

After all, the football team is like anyone else. Maybe the lack of support exhibited by the fans had something to do with the team's troubles. Every FSU student in the stands Thursday wanted our team to win. The only problem was that very few showed it in a way that the players could understand when they needed to feel the students' support the most.

The only real cheering for the team came from the Marching Chiefs who tried to show them what their feelings were: jubilation after a good play, sympathy after a bad call by the referees, and most of all, complete support at all times.

The FSU-Houston game of 1970 is now history, and nothing can be done to change the final score. There are, however, more sports events coming up soon that Florida State will participate in.

So why don't we all come out to the basketball games, the swim meets, and other athletic events to chear a little bit. Let's make our team's emotions work for them instead of against them.

It's at least worth a try.

Need Patience

Student Mobe, as a representative of the suspended students, will meet with President Marshall today at 10 a.m.

If the SMC demands are not met, they have said they will form a sit-in in Westcott at 3 p.m. By a majority of the SMC, they have also decided that they will remain in the building until their demands are met or until they are arrested.

It is childish actions like this on the part of the SMC which placed the suspended students in their present situation.

We do not agree with the recent varying decisions by the conduct panels to suspend the students involved in the Marine Corps recruiter demonstration earlier this year. However, we were also opposed to the demonstrations to begin with.

Grow up, Student Mobe; don't harm the sincere efforts of several campus groups who are trying to get the student suspensions reversed.

The actions planned can only lead to useless confrontation in a time when patience is most needed.

REFLECTIONS

Youth And Nixon

By Mike Sobel

"Let me make one thing perfectly clear." We all know whose words these are. A statement of almost equal fame is Nixon's "I have faith in the youth of this country." How much substance is there in this often-repeated phrase?

The youth have been crying for an end to the war in Vietnam. Richard Nixon has a policy to end the war. This program he calls "Vietnamization." The fact that even when "Vietnamization" is completed, up to 250,000 American troops will remain in Vietnam is a fact not often mentioned.

The youth asserted their disapproval of the Cambodian invasion; fortunately the consequences of this temporary expansion were not disastrous, as they could have been. Recently the administration authorized the bombing and raiding of North Vietnam in an alleged attempt to rescue American prisoners of war. The effects of this recent move could prove to be extremely counterproductive in terms of moving the war to a swifter conclusion. What kind of faith does this represent? Faith that the youth and the people of this country can be duped?

In 1969, Nixon said he would not be moved by the November 15th moratorium on Vietnam. Although 500,000 or more students traveled to Washington to display their attitude towards the Vietnam War, Nixon turned a cold shoulder and refused to recognize the presence of this force. Foreign policy will not be decided in the streets, said he. Last year, in the spring, when students went to Washington to protest the invasion of Cambodia, President Nixon, after spending what was termed a "vexed night," spoke to students early in the morning. In a display of faith, Nixon spoke about such pertinent topics as the football fortunes of the students' respective schools.

In the wake of the Kent State crisis, Nixon appointed a committee to investigate student disorder. The committee submitted a report unfavorable to the administration and urged President Nixon to keep quiet and to pay more attention to the students and their proposals. Spiro Agnew was outraged; he condemned the report before he even read it. Nixon chose to ignore the report. Another example of faith.

What of the students' status? Students receiving federal aid can no longer protest without fearing loss of their scholarships. The "law and order" issue has become a nifty means of labeling young protestors as "anarchists" bent on destroying the backbone of this country. The percentage of students who fit this convenient stereotype are few. Listening to the administration, it is difficult not to believe that Nixon and his boys are responsible for much of the stereotyping and the consequent polarization in present-day America. If Nixon desired, he could clarify the misunderstanding; he chooses, however, to magnify its extent.

There are those who will argue that Richard Nixon does indeed have faith in the country's youth and will cite his recent endorsement of the 18-year-old vote as proof. A brief look is enough to discredit this preposterous claim. Nixon said that although he stands in favor of the 18-year-old vote, the present bill may be unconstitutional. (It has not proved to be, at least not at the present time.) Therefore, the bill should be introduced as an amendment to be submitted to a referendum of the states. It is not likely that 75 percent of the states would pass the proposal and no one is more aware of this than Richard Nixon. The faith of a trickster.

Friday, November 27, President Nixon reaffirmed his lack of faith. On that day, he dismissed Walter J. Hickel, Secretary of the Interior. Hickel, more than any other high-ranking member of the administration, represented the voice of today's youth.

After the Cambodian invasion and Kent State, Hickel criticized Nixon for being so unresponsive to student dissent. Hickel set policy by prosecuting those responsible for offshore oil spills and by initiating grand jury proceedings.

Now that Hickel and several of his aides have been fired, the Nixon administration has begun to reverse these decisions and to "carefully review" them.

The fact that Hickel did more than utter platitudes is probably the cause of his demise. Although his verbal stance was not entirely different from Nixon's, his actions were unique and controversial. Hickel opposed the administration when he felt this was necessary; he acted openly and in accord with his stated beliefs. Although Nixon has stated that his administration welcomes constructive criticism, he couldn't tolerate this actually happening.

Richard Nixon's faith can best be summarized by P. T. Barnum's famous maxim, "There a sucker born every minute." Perhaps Nixon never read what Lincoln had to offer, this being, "It is true that you may fool all of the people some of the time; you can even fool some of the people all of the time; but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Physics Talk At Rollins

Professor Robert H. Davis, principal scientist of the tandem Van de Graaf accelerator program in the Department of Physics, will serve as a visiting lecturer at the Rollins College in Winter Park on Dec. 3 and 4.

Davis will visit under the auspices of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the American Institute of Physics as part of a broad, nationwide program to stimulate interest in physics. The program is now in its 14th year and is supported by the National Science Foundation. Lectures, informal discussion, discussion with faculty members concerning curriculum and research problems in physics, and talks with students will feature in Dr. Davis' visit to Rollins.

Dr Davis first joined the tandem accelerator program at FSU in 1957. He was previously a research assistant at Rice University.

Reception For Scholars

President Stanley Marshall will speak at a reception tonight at 7 p.m. in Longmire Lounge by the Faculty Fund for Student Scholars to honor Florida State University's National Merit Scholars.

Faculty are invited, especially contributors to the Faculty Fund for Student Scholars.

At the present time the Faculty Fund for Student Scholars, with matching funds from the Alumni Association is sponsoring 30 National Merit finalists who stated Florida State University as their preference for college.

The awards are based on need and continue through the four years of the recipients' undergraduate education.

'Aesthetic' Production

An unusual piano concert will be presented at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Moore Auditorium by students Robert Shearer and Steve Leukanech.

The concert will feature Shearer at the piano keyboard with Leukanech at the strings. "We intend to improvise on nothing," said Shearer, who added that the concert would be performed as a project for Leukanech's aesthetics class.

"He was supposed to do an aesthetic production," said Shearer, reporting that Leukanech plays with plastic spoons, xylophone mallets, metal rulers and his hands.

"Your Rights as a Student" will be the topic of an address to be given by Mr. Lester Levine at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow in Room 240 Union.

Mr. Levine is a past chairman of the Tallahassee Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and currently is a member of the state ACLU board.

THE PUBLIC ENEMY—Jean Harlow and James Cagney star in William Wolfman's "The Public Enemy" shown tonight on the Cinema Art Series at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. in Moore Auditorium. The first and most savage of the early gangster films, "The Public Enemy" traces the life of a criminal from early childhood in the slums to big-time gang leadership. Cagney's performance in the title role made him a star overnight. Admission is 50 cents.

Student Senate Calendar

Student Senate is scheduled to consider the following bills and resolutions in its regular meeting tonight at 8 p.m. Bills that would:

Allocate $14,900 to the Senate Art Store;
Allocate $1,830 to the Music Library;
Allocate money to the Special Events Committee;
Change Title IX Ch. 702.2 of the Student Body Statutes;
Compensate Student Senators;
Amend the Student Body Statutes Ch. 208;
Delete Title IX Ch. 11 from the Student Body Statutes;
Allocate money to the Center for Participant Education;
Allocate the Student Body Constitution, Art. 11, Sec. 4;
Allocate money to the FSU Skiing Club;
Allocate $400 to the Math Club;
Allocate $1,200 to the Weightlifting Club;
Allocate $50 to the Arab Society;
Allocate $150 to the FSU Draft-Counseling Center;
Allocate $80 to the Alumni Village Recreation Center;
Amend the voting procedure for visitation;
Allocate $208 to the Gadsden Tutorial Program;
Allocate $2,265 to the University Orchestra;
Allocate $1,402 to the Moot Court Team.

Resolutions that would:

Change the meeting time of Student Senate;
Form a subcommittee for Student Communication;
Encourage the boycotting of Eastern Airlines;
Commend the Marching Chiefs.

Urban Violence In Two Plays

By Kim Rogers
Entertainment Editor

This weekend's Studio Theatre production of The City Scene will mark the first season production of a work by FSU playwright-in-residence Frank Gagliano.

Gagliano, whose Big Sur drew wide acclaim last year, has several productions slated for this year, including the allegorical Prince of Peasantmania and the children's show, The Hide and Seek Odyssey of Madeline Gimple.

Under the direction of graduate student David Dannenbaum, The City Scene consists of two one-act plays dealing with urban life, and, particularly, the problem of urban violence.

According to Dannenbaum, the plays deal with "the erosion of human personality in an urban environment."

Said Dannenbaum, "We are living in a society we have created, and, unfortunately, we don't belong in it."

Paradise Gardens East, the first play of the sequence, takes place in a high rise apartment, while Conerico Was Here to Stay is set in a New York City subway.

Principles in both productions are Bud Rich, Peter Saputo, Jackie Campbell and Carolyn Werner.

Saputo, who compares Gagliano to novelist Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., portrays would-be suicide William Saroyan O'Neill in Paradise Gardens East and the amnesiac Yam in Conerico Was Here to Stay.

Saputo has characterized O'Neill as "a terribly idealistic crusader hopelessly entangled in cynicism," as contrasted to Yam, the "little man, the junior executive desperate to succeed."

Both plays, said Saputo, are exemplary of the "marvelous, comically insane view of society" that has characterized much of Gagliano's work.

"Gagliano is fantastically imaginative," said Saputo. "He has a marvelously bizarre way of treating material. It's the sort of laugh-shudder-cry sequence type of humor."

Said Director Dannenbaum, the "strange atmosphere" created in many of Gagliano's works is done by dint of an unusual handling of dialogue.

The weekend performances of The City Scene are scheduled for 8:15 p.m. Saturday, 8:15 and 11:15 p.m. Sunday, and 8:15 p.m. Monday.

Performances will be held in Conradi Theatre. Admission is 50 cents.

Anti-War Convention In Chicago

A meeting of all anti-war sympathizers is being planned by the National Peace Action Coalition to be held at the Packinghouse Labor Center in Chicago on Dec. 4-6.

The NPAC is a conglomerate organization consisting of over 60 peace groups. The anti-war convention will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 4 with addresses by spokesmen from labor, students and assorted protestors.

On Saturday the convention will go into sessions and workshops in an effort to map out a spring offensive of mass demonstrations demanding the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Southeast Asia. The convention will close Sunday night with a final decision-making session.

The meeting is seen by its builders as a step toward uniting all opponents of the war in Indochina.

Seminoles Take Exciting Opener

Using an early second half barrage by sophomore Ron King to lead the way, the Florida State Seminoles opened their 1970-71 basketball season on an extremely exciting and happy note by defeating the Texas Longhorns 80-78 in Austin, Tex. last night.

King, finishing the game with 23 points, scored eight of those in a period of two minutes in which the Seminoles stretched a meager four-point lead into a 13-point runaway with about 13 minutes left in the contest. The score at that time was 64-51.

In the first half the game was nip-and-tuck with neither team going out front by more than six points, that lead being by the Seminoles. Texas only led at one point in the game at 13-11 and then fell slowly behind to go into the dressing room at the half trailing by four, 43-39.

Controlling the boards, however, the Longhorns stormed back from the big deficit til only eight minutes left when they trailed by four again. The major contributors to the comeback were Lynn Howden who grabbed 25 rebounds for the night's performance and the shooting of Jimmy Blacklock's eight straight points at one time.

The lead fluctuated from that point on but the Longhorns never regained the top spot. With only 11 seconds remaining the Seminoles' Ron Harris hit a free throw to put them out front 80-78 and Texas' Ralph Elliot missed a shot at the buzzer that would have tied the game.

Rowland Garrett played a fine overall game for the Tribe before going out with five minutes left via an injury to his knee. He scored 16 and it is not known how badly the injury will affect his performance Thursday.

Otto Petty played a fine floor game as well as scoring 10 points. Reggie Royals scored seven.

Leading scorers for the Longhorns were B. G. Brosterhouse and Billy Black who had 17 apiece while Blacklock and Howden had 16.

RON KING LEADS WAY—Florida State's sophomore sensation Ron King led the way for the Seminoles last night, scoring 23 points as the Tribe handed the Texas Longhorns a tough 80-78 loss. King scored 13 of his points in the second half and had many of them early in that period when the Seminoles were jumping out to a 13-point margin. The Seminoles play in their home opener Saturday night against Biscayne.

Ducats Still Available For Opener

There are still season tickets for the 1970 basketball home schedule on sale for the rest of this week in the Athletic Ticket Office.

Price for the student season ticket for all 12 home games is $10 and there will also be a date-spouse season ticket available for $15.

There will still be plenty of student and date tickets available for the home opener Thursday night in Tully Gym. Price for individual student tickets are $1.50 while the cost of a single date ticket is $2.

No student may purchase a student ticket for anyone else and he must have a validated ID with him when he purchases the tickets. People entering Tully Gym the night of the game will not have to show their IDs.

FSU Frosh Drop First One 123-108

By Hugh Stanford
Sports Writer

The FSU frosh lost their opening basketball game against North Florida Junior College by the score of 123-108. Characterized by quick turnovers and high fouling, the overall game can only be described as sloppy.

Both teams had players foul out; Lawrence McCray and John Amick dropped out for the Seminoles, as did two players for the North Florida team.

Leading scorer for FSU was Otis Cole with a total of 33 points. Following him were Amick with 15 and Artie Fryer with 18.

Leading in free throws was Jim Albright and Earnest Dix for the North Florida team.

High scorers for the North Florida team were Dix with 27, Jim Albright with 23, James Thomas with 19, Larry Cone with 11 and Jim Brown with 11.

The high turnover count for the Seminoles was a problem for the team. The loss of McCray and Amick from fouling out did not help matters either.

1970 UPI All-America Team

By Fred McManes
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four members of the undefeated Ohio State team and the first Ivy Leaguer in 19 years highlight the United Press International's 1970 All-America college football team released Tuesday.

Cornerback Jack Tatum, linebacker Jim Stillwagon, safety Mike Sensibaugh and running back John Brockington are the four members of the Big Ten champion Buckeyes to gain national recognition, and running back Ed Marinaro of Cornell is the first Ivy Leaguer since Princeton's Dick Kazamier in 1951 to make first team honors.

This year's All-America squad was well represented by the nation's top ranked teams. The second-ranked Buckeyes led with four selections and top-ranked Texas and sixth-ranked Notre Dame each placed three men on the first team.

Texas, which is undefeated after nine games, was represented by running back Steve Worster, offensive tackle Bobby Wuensch and defensive end Bill Atessis. The Irish, who finished with a 9-1 record, named offensive end Tom Gatewood, offensive guard Larry Dinardo and defensive Clarence Ellis to the first unit.

Tatum, regarded by pro scouts as the top defensive back in the nation, was the top vote-getter in the balloting of 247 sports writers and sportscasters from across the nation. The senior from Passaic, N.J., was named on 170 ballots in gaining first team honors for the second straight year. Dinardo, also a repeat selection, topped the offensive team with 151 votes.

Jim Plunkett of Stanford, the Heisman Trophy winner, was named to the quarterback position. Plunkett led the nation in total yardage with 2,898 and ranked second to Auburn's Pat Sullivan in total offense with 263.5 yards per game while leading Stanford to the Pacific Eight title and its first Rose Bowl berth in 19 years.

Of the 22-member squad, four are repeaters from last year and four are juniors.

Tatum, Dinardo, Kell and Stillwagon are the repeat selections and Marinaro, Gatewood, Ellis and Ehrmann are juniors.

The most surprising choice was perhaps that of Marinaro. However, the 6-foot-3, 210 pound junior from New Milford, N.J., finished as the nation's leading rusher with an average of 158.3 yards per game and gained the nod as a first team choice over such impressive runners as North Carolina's Don McCauley and Northwestern's Mike Adamle.

McCauley, who broke O.J. Simpson's single season rushing record and scored 21 touchdowns, joined Adamle in the second team back field along with Notre Dame's Joe Theismann and Missouri's Joe Moore. Moore missed five games with a shoulder separation but was among the nation's leading rushers before his injury.

Third-ranked Nebraska headed the list of second team selections with three. The Cornhuskers named offensive tackle Bob Newton, defensive tackle Dave Walline and linebacker Jerry Murtaugh to the second unit.

Intramurals Sponsors Race

The intramurals department announces that it will sponsor a campus-wide Cross Country Championship on Friday Dec. 4, 1970. The time for the start will be 4 p.m.

There will be two divisions: Fraternity and Independent. The Fraternity will be divided into team and individual titles with each organization having to enter at least three men to be eligible for the team winnings.

In the Independent Division there will be two sections, one for those under 30 years of age, and another for all others. If there are enough entrants, two separate races will be staged in this division; if not, the two groups will run together.

The winners of the team sections of all these groups will be figured on the usual cross-country basis, the lowest scoring three-man team will be awarded the championship.

No varsity track or cross-country team members will be eligible to participate.

The length of the course will be two miles which is measured to begin at the FSU track and circle about the intramural area and will end back at the FSU track.

For further information on how the course will be oriented, contact the intramural office in Tully Gym.

Longhorns Remain On Top

NEW YORK (UPI)—Texas heads into the final week of the season as the nation's No. 1 college football teams, but the Longhorns will have to prove it Saturday to win the national title.

Texas had little trouble holding its No. 1 rating this week after a 52-14 rout of Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day. The Longhorns received 24 first place votes from the 33 members of the 35 man United Press International board of coaches who participated in this week's balloting and piled up 397 points.

But Texas will put it on the line Saturday against Arkansas, the nation's No. 5 team and winner of nine consecutive games following an opening loss to Stanford.

The United Press International college championship will be decided next week since UPI ratings are based on regular season performances only.

A Texas victory would almost guarantee the Longhorns their second straight national title. A loss would open the gates to almost five teams.

These include second-ranked Ohio State (9-0) and third-ranked Nebraska (10-0-1), both of whom have completed their regular seasons. It could also open the way for Tennessee (No. 4) which would finish 10-1 with a victory over UCLA this week. And of course, it would be Arkansas which would finish 10-1 with an upset of Texas.

Notre Dame, which slipped to sixth after a 38-28 upset loss to Southern California, is 9-1 and could enter a strong bid. Michigan, the seventh-ranked team is also 9-1 but its loss was to Ohio State virtually eliminated the Wolverines.

Louisiana State, which faces Mississippi this week, is eighth, followed by unbeaten Arizona State (9-0), who closes against Arizona and Auburn (8-2).

Stanford was 11th in the balloting, followed by Air Force, Dartmouth, Houston and Mississippi. Colorado, Oklahoma, Toledo and UCLA finished in a four-way tie for 16th and Georgia Tech was 20th.

Tennessee moved up on its 24-6 victory over Vanderbilt while Louisiana State beat Tulane 26-14 and Mississippi was upset by Mississippi State 19-14. Auburn downed Alabama 33-28, Houston beat Florida State 53-21 and Georgia Tech downed arch-rival Georgia 17-7.

Oklahoma moved back into the top 20 with a 66-6 rout of Oklahoma State.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical areas of the nation comprise the UPI ratings board.

Ali Being Followed By Flying Saucer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Muhammad Ali spotted the "flying saucer" as soon as he started his roadwork at 5 a.m. Tuesday in Central Park.

It was a spot of light to the east, much brighter than any of the stars overhead.

"They've been following me for a year," he exclaimed. "I've seen 'em split into groups and float back and forth."

As he ran for the next hour, the light hung in the sky, and Ali was almost willing to concede it was a bright star. But moments later, he shouted for his trainers, Angelo Dundee and Drew "Bundini" Brown, and a reporter to show them another discovery. A pinpoint of light, not unlike the other stars, was moving due north. After 45 seconds, it disappeared behind a clump of trees.

The first "flying saucer" was identified as the planet Venus by an astronomer after the police in Queens were harrassed by callers, and the second was identified as a missile.

"I still think they're flying saucers," Ali said.

Diracs Enjoy FSU

Anyone who hears Dirac lecture immediatley becomes aware that every word has been chosen carefully and has its precise and literal meaning.

His assumption that everyone else will be equally precise creates an occasional problem. An interesting story is told about a lecture that he delivered some years ago at a Canadian university. In the question period at the end of the talk, one man stood up and said that he did not understand the derivation of equation so-and-so.

Dirac looked around for a few moments but made no attempt to reply. Finally the chairman of the meeting inquired whether he wished to make any comment on the question.

"That was a statement, not a question," said Dirac, and with that he passed on to the next questioner. Later he confided "I felt that I had explained the derivation of that equation to the best of my ability; there was no point in my repeating what I had already said."

The Diracs are enjoying Tallahassee. The hills around the city make "fine walking country."

Oil Slick Spotted

TALLAHASSEE—A 75-mile long oil slick believed caused by Italian oil tanker has been spotted off the Florida Keys and may imp the Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, State Natural Resources Direc Randolph Hodges disclosed today.

"As of this morning it was one mile off the park at its nearest a five miles off at the farthest point," Hodges told the cabinet. He s the half-mile wide slick stretched from Key Largo to Marathon.

Hodges said the major immediate problem was in figuring how contain the slick and prevent the oil from sinking to the bottom of Pennekamp Coral Reef Park off Key Largo.

Army Instructors Brief Law Agents

By Susan Robinson
Staff Writer

Instructors from Fort Rucker's 23rd Explosive Ordinance Detachment (EOD) briefed area law enforcement agents on the latest techniques for dispensing with a bomb threat situation.

Lt. John Stahl and Spec. 4th Class David Patterson, sponsored by the university's Deparment of Public Safety and Security, covered their subject thoroughly from the composition of homemade explosive devices likely to be found on campus to the most efficient method of searching for and denoting the device.

In their sharp Edwardian civilian suits and colored shirts and striped ties, the instructors repeatedly emphasized the value of human life in appraising an explosive situation.

"People are the most important asset," said Lt. Stahl, who conducted the Tuesday night lecture.

"You can rebuild a building, but it's pretty hard to piece a person back together," he said.

Stahl noted that a well-rehearsed, methodical plan of action is essential to the efficient handling of any bomb threat situation.

"Common sense and unlimited patience are the greatest assets," he said.

"It's almost a cardinal sin to lose your temper."

Concerning possible motivation for instigating a bomb scare, Stahl commented, "I'm not saying whether they're wrong or right, that's not my field.

"Due to their convictions they apparently feel that they have the right to endanger another individual."

Capt. Paul Uravich, who had invited the EOD instructors to speak to his department, said that several area agenices were invited to attend the sessions which were held on Tuesday night and Wednesday afternoon.

Among these agencies were the Tallahassee Fire and Police Departments, the state fire marshall, security officers from the capitol area, Florida A&M University and the University of West Florida and the Pensacola Police Department.

Senator Accuses FSU Professor

By David McMullen
Associate Editor

The name of a Florida State University professor, alleged to have promised an "A" to students who attended and handed in a paper for the recent Abbie Hoffman speech, still remains unknown.

The alleged incident came to light when State Senate President Jerry Thomas reportedly said this was why Abbie Hoffman drew such a crowd while visiting FSU and the University of Florida several weeks ago.

Speaking from his office last night, Thomas told the Flambeau that he did not know the name of the professor. He said the incident was reported to him by another state senator.

Thomas declined to give the other senator's name. "I have asked him to verify it," Thomas said, before either the senator or the professor's name are released.

Thomas made the statement while discussing recent criticism that out of town meetings of senate committees did not attract large numbers.

"I could get on the phone and get a crowd to senate committee meetings if that's what you want," United Press International reported Thomas as saying.

"We could tell the teachers to send their civic classes and give the students who did a 'C'," he said.

FSU President J. Stanley Marshall, when asked about the incident said, "I have asked Senator Thomas for all the information."

"The allegation, of course, is a serious one. If substantiated, such flaunting of academic standards would be regarded as reprehensible conduct by every responsible member of the academic community," Marshall said.

"The university will pursue this matter and, if the facts warrant, take the appropriate action," Marshall said.

"I was surprised that my statement generated this much attention," Thomas told the Flambeau. "I just made it in passing at the committee meeting."

When asked about the Hoffman speech, Thomas said that he did not hear the speech.

"I enjoy open debate between two people with different points of view," Thomas said. Talking about Hoffman's use of obscenities, Thomas said that he did not see how anyone could be asked to debate with Hoffman.

"Obscenity used to be against the law," Thomas said, "I think it still is."

Hoffman spoke in Ruby Diamond Auditorium Nov. 16, before a packed house of 1,600 persons. They paid $1 each and Hoffman was paid a lecture fee of $1,500 for his Student Government sponsored appearance.

Thomas, who attended FSU from 1949-52 and at one time wrote a column for the Flambeau, said that he encouraged students to hear various points of view.

"Good wholesome debate is good," Thomas said.

Co-op Approved

By Len Majors
Staff Writer

Student Senate approved plans for an FSU cooperative store to be opened by March 21, 1971 during in its regular session Wednesday night.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Larry Polivka, allocates $7,500 to the co-op effort headed by Don Muse, director of the FSU Consumers Association. The co-op will deal in food staples with a limited quantity of books and art supplies in addition.

Joel Bronstein was appointed by the senate to fill the seat left vacant by the advancement of Sen. Ray Gross to Student Body Vice President. Bronstein is a junior in the law school and has been active in the public defenders program of the Honor Court, community relations, and neighborhood legal services. He was nominated by Chuck Sherman, student body president.

The Gadsden Tutorial Program was allocated $208 for the continuation of its program. The money will be used for transportation of the tutors to an elementary school in Gadsden County. The bill, sponsored by Sen. Candy Miller, was passed by a vote of 31 for and 0 against.

Senate allocated $1402 to the College of Law moot court team, that the team might take part in the national moot court competition in New York. The bill, introduced by Sen. Ed Kreiger, passed by a vote of 23 for, 7 against.

The open house procedures were amended in a bill sponsored by Women's Vice President Mary McInerny. The Student Body Statutes were altered so that open houses are to take effect when ratified by a majority of the legal votes cast in a referendum of the house residents. The statutes had specified that a majority vote by all the residents was needed before open house could take place.

The meeting time of senate was changed from 8 p.m. Wednesday to 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

Westcott Demonstration Supports Suspended '8'

A crowd of about 100 students met on the steps of the Westcott Building yesterday at 3 p.m. in support of the nine students suspended for their participation in the Sept. 28 Bryan Hall demonstrations.

Inside Westcott, at the time of the rally, President Marshall was reviewing the individual suspension cases and speaking to several of the suspended students.

The sit-in and possible arrest projected by the Student Mobilization Committee failed to materialize.

"The sit-in was planned before Marshall decided to interview the students," Thomas Upton, one of the suspended students, said. "We decided that it would be better tactically to wait until the students had spoken to Marshall," he said.

During the rally several students spoke of the implications which the suspensions, if enforced, will have on the future of peaceful dissent on campus.

A spokeswoman for the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) said the suspensions have already intimidated the student anti-war effort at Florida State. "We are now fighting to regain our freedom of speech," she added.

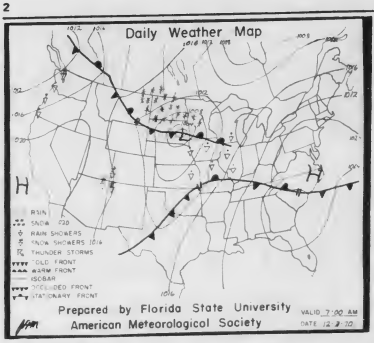

One student said he felt the repressive policies of Nixon and President Marshall were doomed to fail because they will never cover up the fact that the system is not working for the majority of the people.

After several hours of discussion, those at the rally decided to await Marshall's final decision before planning any definite future action.

According to Mike Beaudoin, director of information services, President Marshall will probably announce his decision before the start of the final examination period. Beaudoin said Marshall has already spoken to eleven of the twelve students originally charged with disrupting the normal processes of the university.

flambeau weather

By Jim Moore

Flambeau Meteorologist

In the Tallahassee area some early morning cloudiness will be followed by mostly fair skies and rather warm temperatures. The high today will be up near 80 and the low this evening will fall to nearly 52. Winds will be high and out of the south.

Over the central portions of our nations a rather complex system of fronts is causing a variety of weather. There will be snow in the northern areas and showers to the South. Along the East Coast high pressure is producing mild weather. In the Far West, rain and snow will be moving inland off the Pacific Ocean.

Former USF Director

University Registrar Appointed

Homer S. Fisher Jr., director of records and registration at the University of South Florida, has been appointed University Registrar at FSU.

Dr. Paul Craig, vice president for academic affairs at Florida State, said Fisher's appointment is effective Feb. 1, 1971. He replaces William Wharton, who joined the University of North Florida's faculty in September. Dr. Willis Caldwell, director of admissions, has been acting registrar in the interim.

Fisher, 31, is a native of Montgomery, Ala., with two degrees from Auburn University, the latest his masters in business administration in 1964.

He taught statistics and economics at Auburn from 1963 to 1965 and served as an assistant dean at Auburn from 1965 to 1966. From 1966 to 1970 he was an assistant or associate registrar, also at Auburn. He joined the USF staff in September, specializing mainly in computerized registration records.

Fisher's speciality is computer registration and he has authored articles on the subject in five different journals. Dr. Wilford S. Bailey, vice president for academic affairs at Auburn, said of Fisher: "He is unique in his combination of technical capacity and ability to work with people."

Fisher was selected Auburn's Outstanding Young Man by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1969 and was listed in Outstanding Young Men of America in 1970. He is a past president and vice president of the Auburn Faculty Club and is a former secretary and vice-president-elect of the Auburn Rotary Club. He also served as secretary-treasurer of Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. He is active in Boy Scouts and Methodist Church work.

He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honor society; Omicron Delta Epsilon, economics honor society; and Tau Kappa Alpha, forensics honor society. While at Auburn he was a member of the debate team and debate council.

Religion Dept. Offers Lecture Series Course

"Celebration" will be the focus of a lecture series course to be offered during the winter quarter by the Department of Religion. This unique course, REL 370: Religion and Contemporary Forms of Celebration, will combine a weekly lecture-forum each Thursday at 8 p.m. In addition are weekly discussion groups meeting at a variety of times each Wednesday to talk about readings related to the theme of celebration.

In addition to the traditional lecture format, the Thursday night series will include poetry reading, a light show, a demonstration of electric media, and sensitivity training.

The final examination will entail presentations and criticism by students of their papers or original projects related to the theme of the course.

Members of Phi Gamma Delta (Fiji) came up with a new twist to the usual holiday food giving Tuesday night. They kidnapped twelve sorority presidents and held them for a 150 pound food ransom from each chapter.

The food will be donated to the Alpha Phi Omega White Christmas.

"We were very pleased with the results of the project—it was fun, and the fifteen hundred pounds of food we collected will make Christmas a lot merrier for a number of needy local families," said project director Bob Bogdanoff. He added, "The credit shouldn't go to us, it should to to the sororities who collected the food."

Director of Student Activities Dr. June Dugger said that she was pleased with the project. "The point of the whole thing was to collect food for the needy. In this time when a change of emphasis in the Greek system is taking place, this combination of fun—the kidnapping—with the altruistic project of helping the poor, is a case in point," she said.

Sigma Kappa contributed the largest donation of food to the drive, followed by Kappa Delta and Zeta Tau Alpha. Sigma Sigma Sigma, Alpha Xi Delta, and Alpha Gamma Delta all surpassed the goal of 150 pounds of food set by the Fijis.

Alpha Delta Pi, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Omicron Pi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Chi Omega, and Phi Mu also participated in he project.

Bev Baer, president of Sigma Kappa, said she enjoyed the "kidnapping."

"It was a lot of fun, and I am glad my sorority was able to help some people less fortunate than ourselves."

Professor Visits Rollins

Dr. Robert H. Davis, principal accelerator scientist and physicist at Florida State, will serve as a visiting lecturer at Rollins College in Winter Park today and Friday.

Davis will visit under the auspices of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the American Institute of Physics as part of a broad, nationwide program to stimulate interest in physics. The program is now in its fourteenth year and is supported by the National Science Foundation.

Lecturers, informal discussion, assistance to faculty members concerning curriculum and research problems in physics, and talks with students will be features of Davis' visit.

Davis is principal Scientist of the Tandem Accelerator Program at Florida State University. He came to Florida State in 1957 from Rice University where he was a research associate.

Water Quality Study

Students Request Funds

A group of 15 students have sent research proposals to Washington requesting funds for a local study of water quality in Tallahassee.

The total request amounts to $27,100, of which $9,400 will be furnished by FSU.

The ten undergraduates and five graduate students are from the departments of biology, chemistry, economics, geology, government, history, home economics, law, math, oceanography, psychology and urban planning.

Formation of the student group was begun by Martin Hudson through the Environmental Action Group (EAG) meetings and a letter to the editor by Fred Murrell which appeared in the Flambeau. A final group of 15 was selected from the 90 students who responded. Selection was on the basis of course background, experience and course performance.

Preparation of the proposal manuscript was facilitated by Dean Robert M. Johnson, director of the research project.

The study proposal is in three phases. First will be the defining of water problems chemically and biologically, analyzing people's attitudes on the value of water resources, establishing a cost-benefit ratio for restoration and maintenance of high water quality and researching available technology for waste treatment.

Second will be utilizing this data to develop a strategy for water supply and waste disposal management, using predictive models.

Last will be supplementing water quality strategy with legal research on existing codes and agencies to develop a political design to implement the water management system developed.

Dr. Robert Harriss of oceanography and Dr. Michael Everett of economics were chosen by the group to be the faculty sponsors.

Well Done

Campus organizations have a responsibility to be aware of the needs of the community around them. During this holiday season, several groups have responded to the needs of the Tallahassee area.

The Black Student Union collected a large quantity of food which was distributed to needy families for Thanksgiving. Through donations, contributions of food from groups such as the Southern Scholarship and Research Foundation and a raffle for a television, the members of the BSU were able to give a happier Thanksgiving to many Tallahassee families.

Alpha Phi Omega held its annual White Christmas last night. The men of this service fraternity deserve recognition for the time, effort and money put into organizing this traditional holiday season event which is both meaningful to the participants and beneficial to the recipients of the efforts of those participants.

Phi Gamma Delta fraternity (Fijis) likewise deserves recognition for its original idea to gather food for the Alpha Phi Omega Christmas drive. The fraternity kidnapped 12 sorority presidents and demanded in the ransom note 150 pounds of food. Altogether, approximately 1500 pounds of food were collected and turned over to the White Christmas drive.

The 12 sororities that cooperated with the Fijis must not be forgotten. Had it not been for their efforts in raising the "ransom," the entire fraternity plot would have been unsuccessful.

Certainly other groups and individuals have responded to community needs during this holiday season. That they are not mentioned here is not an indication of their importance, but of our lack of knowledge of their activities.

Although most of the members of these groups would not like to be congratulated for something which they perceive as an obligation, we nevertheless extend to the men and women of these groups a grateful "thank you" and a hearty "well done."

Law And Order

"The streets of our country are in turmoil. The universities are filled with students rebelling and rioting. Russia is threatening us with her might. Communists are seeking to destroy our country. And the republic is in danger.

"Yes—danger from within and without ... Without law and order our nation cannot survive ..."

This statement was made by Adolph Hitler, 1932.

Letters To The Editor

Administration Disregards Students

To the Editor:

During the past year and a half it has become increasingly obvious to me that the administration and the Board of Regents have little regard for the needs (academic, financial, etc.) and rights of students. For a time I believed that the administration and the BOR were merely responding to a punitive state legislature and were not deliberately indifferent to their reason for being, i.e. students. A succession of large and small events has changed my mind.

First, the administration, with the corroboration of the BOR, imposed on the student body a charge for all major athletic events. This was done during the summer when most students were away and after the administration had already taken a record $190,000 from the student activities fee budget for athletics. This was an act of calculated bad faith and Coach Pete wonders why students don't turn out like they used to, even when FSU had less successful seasons. It's just not as easy to identify with the team any more, Coach.

Second, the administration refused last year to provide the Chaplain's Office, the only really student-oriented program associated with the administration, with funds needed for basic office repairs. The Student Senate provided the funds.

Third, the administration has been quite willing, evidently, to allow the scholarship houses to deteriorate indefinitely. Last spring the Student Senate finally provided the houses with money ($1,300) for repairs.

Fourth, the BOR decided this fall to charge students 25 cents a day for overdue books, even though statistics show that fine rates are not positively associated with book return rates, and even though FSU's head librarian wrote a letter to the BOR discouraging such an outrageous, usurious rate. The money from the fines goes not to the library but to the university slush fund, which has been known to provide athletics with a little extra cash from time to time.

Fifth, for reasons still unclear, the university decided that students should pay for drugs in the infirmary this year. Oh, what the hell, let the students absorb the rising rates of inflation. After all, what are they going to do about it?

Sixth, the administration and the BOR seem to have decided that peaceful dissent should become a relic of the past. Suspend 12 or so dissenters, as many identifiable leaders as possible included, and you just might turn those who would dissent into simpering, mindless ciphers who'll never dare suggest that the U.S., with its university-developed weapons, has disrupted the orderly processes of North and South Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia, and the Dominican Republic.

Seventh, instead of increasing student parking space, the administration is evidently determined to restrict such space to the point that all students will be parking as far away as Campbell Stadium.

Eighth, the administration is, presently at least, unwilling to fund a day-care center, which would assist not only underpaid staff employees but would also provide students in education, psychology, social work and other disciplines with some valuable professional experiences.

Finally, the administration callously allowed students to sign year-long contracts for residence in DeGraff Hall, without informing them of long-developed plans to turn the building over to the School of Nursing (which, indeed, does need a building) at mid-year. This isn't just careless planning, it's calculated exploitation.

I don't claim absolute knowledge of all these developments and I would be happy to be informed further concerning them. As it is, discussions of these matters among students and between students and the administration should begin minus the bureaucrateze, clap-trap terminology the administration traditionally uses to smother real dialogue.

It may be that the only real alternative students have is to establish our own semi-autonomous academic and social community relatively free of the whims of the administration. I think that the Center for Participant Education and the developing Student Government-sponsored food and book co-op are steps in the direction of such a participatory, self-sustaining community. These are steps that could be lengthened with the cooperative assistance of friendly faculty members.

Faculty Caucus Asks Leniency For 'Twelve'

Dear President Marshall:

We are writing you in the hope that you will consider some of our concerns as you hear the appeals of the students convicted for their activities in conjunction with the events which recently transpired at Bryan Hall. We feel that in view of the circumstances and considerations presented below the penalties applied to the students should be less than those recommended by the Student Conduct Committee in a number of cases. We hope that you will not suspend any of the students.

As we began this academic year, it was made clear that this university would not tolerate disruptive conduct on the part of students and that conduct previously tolerated might no longer be allowed. As these new ground rules were applied, the term "disruption" would be defined, as well as the limits to be placed on student dissent. The students in the Bryan Hall incident were the first to feel the application of these new ground rules and were unsure of the kind of dissent which would be permitted. Subsequent events have shown that the administration deems the acts committed in Bryan Hall were disruptive, and this decision was upheld in a number of cases by the Student Conduct Committee. We believe that the uncertainty about what kinds of dissent would be tolerated is grounds for leniency in dealing with this first group of students.

We are also concerned about the severity of the sentences in the context of the kinds of penalties which have been applied when other university rules and regulations have been violated. It appears that cases involving physical harm by one student on another and involving theft have resulted in punishment being applied at the level of reprimand or work hours. In this case, where no person was injured or property damaged and wherein the entire event lasted for only a matter of minutes, students may be suspended—which is the second most severe penalty available. In some cases, this can cause a loss of financial support, the cost of attending Florida State University for a quarter with no academic credit, and an offense to be listed on the record of a student which can be most damaging in his subsequent career. It seems that suspension is too serious a penalty for the offense committed.

We must be very careful in juding these students so that we do not, even subconsciously, classify them with disruptive students around the country who have injured people, destroyed property, and disrupted large segments of a university's functions for long periods of time. Clearly, we must not allow Florida State University to be disrupted in this manner. On the other hand, we must not treat our students who dissent as if they had committed such crimes when, in fact, their protests have taken a very mild form.

For these reasons, I hope you will see fit to reduce the penalties applied to these students and in particular those involving suspensions.

James R. Fisher, President
Faculty Action Caucus

Madrigal Tickets Available

Tickets are still available for the Madrigal Dinners scheduled for Monday night, said Mrs. Kay Vernon, production director for the event.

The dinners, sponsored by the University Dining Services, the University Union, and the School of Music, were sold out early for almost all performances, said Mrs. Vernon.

"A main comment," said Mrs. Vernon, "was that so many more students bought tickets this year than ever before."

According to Mrs. Vernon, student ticket sales accounted for more than 40 per cent of the tickets sold.

The Madrigal Dinners are held in the atmosphere of a medieval English castle, with entertainment provided by wandering minstrels and Madrigal Singers.

The evening's fare includes the traditional wassail, the Boar's head, and flaming plum pudding, served by waiters that are costumed, like the minstrels and singers, in traditional medieval attire.

Music performed for the dinners includes medieval carols as well as traditional seasonal music.

"We've had good cooperation from people in the School of Music, the University Dining Services and the University Union," said Mrs. Vernon, adding that any profits received from the dinners go into grants for FSU students.

Hanoi Trip Planned For NSA Groups

Flambeau Wire Services

Groups of the National Student Association (NSA), composed largely of college student body presidents, have made plans to fly to Hanoi and Saigon within the next week for talks leading to a students' peace treaty, NSA president David Ifshin said.

The idea of the trip, Ifshin said, is to arrive at a document, "a peace treaty", acceptable to the students of the three countries.

James Parish, NSA coordinator at FSU said, "The NSA trip to North Vietnam will give the visiting student body presidents a first hand look at the other side's situation. Having a knowledge of both sides will give those students a broader and more comprehensive view of the Vietnam war situation. I will make their impressions known to the FSU students as soon as they return to this country," said Parish.

As of now, visas for 10 students to visit Hanoi for talks with North Vietnamese students have been arranged.

Travel permits for the delegation of four to Saigon have remained blocked.

Special Speaker Tonight

Peter Buch, member of Hashomer Hatzair, a socialist Zionist youth organization will speak in Moore Auditorium tonight at 7:30.

The Arab Club, the Young Socialist Alliance, and the Revolutionary Film Committee are co-sponsoring Buch's talk to counter the anti-Arab sentiment of this country and of the FSU campus in particular.

Buch is now on a nationwide speaking tour, to present his talk "In defense of the Palestinian Revolution."

Buch spent six months in Israel in 1951 where he worked on a kibbutz and attended a leadership training school. He later broke with Zionism, and became a founder of the Young Socialist Alliance. He is now a member of the Socialist Workers Party.

Group Discussion Course Offered

A new course, Group Discussion: Communications 360, will be offered for the winter quarter.

This course will deal with the problem of interacting in small groups. It is designed to enable one to become an effective participant in small groups having the following purposes: sharing information, solving problems, and formulating policy.

Although this is not a course ingroupsensitivity, attention will be given to interpersonal awareness.

The student will study group interaction by participating in and by observing small groups both inside and outside of the class. You will be able to use the small group as a training laboratory for exploring and developing your leadership potential and your skills as a contributing member.

Group Discussion Com 360 will be scheduled to meet MWF, 5th period in 124 Bellamy. For further information, call Deems Brooks at 599-2044.

NSF Grants

Florida State has been included among the universities tapped by the President's Science Advisory Committee for major National Science Foundation grants.

FSU received $4.8 million in 1968, making it the 28th institution to be singled out by the committee as having "the potential to achieve outstanding quality."

Meets Biscayne At Home

Tribe Tries For Second

Florida State's Seminoles open their home basketball season tonight when they take on the Biscayne Bobcats in Tully Gym at 7:30.

The Seminoles, winners of their first outing Tuesday night against Texas, will be looking for their second win of the season with a starting lineup consisting of one senior and junior along with three sophomores.

Ron King was the high scorer for the Seminoles against the Longhorns as he pumped in 23 points. Others to hit in double figures were Vernell Ellzy with 11, Rowland Garrett with 16 and point man Otto Petty with 10.

Biscayne opened its season with a 133-88 loss to powerful Jacksonville but played the Dolphins fairly even throughout the first half. The Bobcats featured two hotshot guards at the point and wing positions and are basically a running basketball team.

FSU suffered much from their own mistakes in the Texas outing as they let a 13-point lead fade away in the final minutes and led by as little as one.

"Against Texas," commented head basketball coach Hugh Durham, "we made the typical first game mistakes. But overall I thought we played well. Texas is a good basketball team. Our kids held their composure and didn't panic when the going got tough late in the game."

Garrett, injured slightly in the stages of the game Tuesday, is expected to be at full speed in the Biscayne contest.

The Seminole freshmen will also open their home season this evening as they host powerful Gulf Coast Junior College. The Tribe lost its first game of the season Tuesday, bowing to North Florida Junior College by the score of 123-108.

Leon Plays In Campbell

Leon High School's Lions, sporting a 10-0 record and the no. 1 ranking in the final statewide poll, will open its quest for the state championship Friday night when they take on Jacksonville Terry Parker in Campbell Stadium at 8 p.m.

Terry Parker has a 9-1 record for the season and is the no. 7 team in the state according to the poll conducted by the Florida Sportswriters Association.

Leon is led by the running of two devastating backs in Mike Norman and Richard Sykes.

Norman is the leading scorer in the history of high school football in Florida, since he kicks as well as scores touchdowns.

The cost for the game will be $2 for adults and $1 for student tickets. FSU students will be admitted for the lower price if they show their IDs.

FSU Ranks 14 In Poll

Florida State has been ranked nationally in the United Press International pre-season basketball poll released Wednesday. The Seminoles, who won their first game of the season Tuesday night, were rated 14th by the 35 coaches who comprise the rating board.

Jacksonville, FSU's top rival for state honors, captured the no. 3 spot in the poll. The Dolphins, led by 7-2 Artis Gilmore, were runners-up to UCLA in last year's NCAA tournament.

The Bruins are favored to take the NCAA crown again this year, receiving 23 of 26 first-place votes cast. UCLA easily outdistanced no. 2 South Carolina, which captured the other three firsts.

Jacksonville was followed by Kentucky, perennial SEC power and always one of the top teams in the nation. Marquette was rated fifth, while Notre Dame landed the sixth spot. Penn, Western Kentucky, Utah State and Southern California complete the top 10.

intramurals

There will be no intramural games tonight in the basketball tournament due to the varsity basketball home opener against Biscayne.

The winners of the all-campus paddleball tournament, held last week, were John Sieman and Dr. Peter Everett. Sieman and Everett won the final match in three sets by a score of 15-9, 1-15, 15-8.

There will also be the intramural cross-country meet this Friday at 4 p.m. The course on which it will be run is two miles and stretches around the Florida High football field and the intramural field area. There will be three classes offered in this tourney; the Fraternity Division, an Independent Division, and an Over-30 Divison in the Independents.

Individual and team awards will be given and the meet will be run off by the Florida State cross country coach Dick Roberts. If you wish to participate, be at the Florida State track at 4 p.m.

Also, anyone interested in a women's track team should attend an informational meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 9 at 4 p.m. in Room 216 Tully Gym. Anyone who is interested in competing but can't attend the meeting should see Mrs. Ludwig in Tully Gym or call 2640 for more information.

Swimmers Meet

The public gets its first look at Florida State's swimming team Friday afternoon when Coach Bim Stults' Seminoles divide up for the annual Garnet and Gold meet. The opening event gets underway at 2 p.m. in the University Union pool.

Stults, starting his 22nd year as the Tribe's coach, thinks he has split the squads so equally that every event should be close. "This meet will go a long way in determining who swims against Evansville Dec. 16 in the opener," said Stults.

"I'm pleased with the way our kids have been working. Now I'm anxious to see them in competition."

If the Garnet squad has an edge it will be because it has a pair of all-Americas in diver Phil Boggs, senior from Akron, Ohio, and senior Dean Jerger, freestyler from St. Petersburg.

Competing for the Garnets will be Ed Anderson, John Brown, Dennis Bunn, Bill Gest, Tom Gest, Chet Miltenberger, Jerry Norris, Al Orendorff, Bill Orendorff, Jerry Stevens, Boggs, George Hoch, Rusty Rushton, Jeff Selvey, Doug Shropshire, Al Stephenson, Randy Koach and Bill Lekas. Jerger will captain the Garnet squad.

On the Gold team are Steve Driver, Al Drusys, Lawton Harrison, Mark Jenkins, Marc Middleton, Roger Russell, Michael Steelie, Lee Plank, Tom Arnold, Dennis Carter, John Hegert, Richard Jenks, Charles Mitchell, John Naser, Jim Phillips, Jeff Stone, Jim Stevens, David Trepanier and Tom Young. Terry Maxhimer will captain the Golds.

The Seminoles' schedule this year includes such tough foes as South Carolina, North Carolina and the University of Florida.

Final Look At A Football Team

DEFENSE THE TOPS AT FSU—What can one say about the Seminoles' defensive team except that it was phenomenal. Personally, they won the first two Seminole games and if not for a first half pile of points by Florida and that wild second half by Houston, its record would be unscathed at this time. James Thomas, Bill Lohse, Bob McEachern, Beryl Rice, Ron Wallace and the rest of the team deserve much praise.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN THE EARLY GOING—Rhett Dawson, above, and David Snell, below, were a couple of the bright spots in the Seminoles not too impressive beginning. Dawson was a consistent receiver who ended the year with 54 receptions for 946 yards while Snell was an exciting player, returning punts for a 9.0 average, playing some on defense and ending the season as a second string offensive back.

HUFF'S BRILLIANT FLURRY—Losing 38-7 with only seven minutes to go in the game, sophomore Gary Huff came off the bench to lead one of the wildest passing displays in the history of the school. In that period, he hit 8-15 tosses for over 200 yards and three touchdowns to make the final score a respectable 38-27.

Karate Club Holds Clinics Dec. 4

Florida State's Karate Club will sponsor the Fifth Karate Skill Clinic and Promotional this weekend, Dec. 4, 5 and 6. The program is to be conducted by M. Yeki who is a fifth degree black belt in the sport.

These clinics will be held in several different sections. On Friday evening, there will be a beginners meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Montgomery Gym while later in that evening there will be an advanced show at 8:30 p.m.

Saturday, there will be four clinics, two held in the morning at 9:30 a.m. for beginners and at 10:30 a.m. for the more advanced. In the evening two more are scheduled for the same time as those on Friday night.

On Sunday, however, a final meeting will be held in which all participants, no matter what their proficiency at the sport may be, will be welcome. The time for this is at 12 noon.

Everyone is urged to attend all meetings so that there will be a large turnout to visibly demonstrate the university's interest in the art of karate. Poor participation will hurt the image of both the Florida State and Florida A&M clubs.

There will be no fees charged for anyone entering into these clinics. Non-members from around the university community are invited to come out and see what this sport is all about.

BATTLING THE WILDCATS—FSU wide receiver Barry Smith tussles with Kansas State's Clarence Scott for the ball as the Tribe won their fifth straight game and seventh of the season with a rousing 33-7 win.

THE SCOREBOARD SHOWS IT—Bill Peterson can't believe it as he watches the Seminoles give up 41 points in the second half and lose to the Houston Cougars on a Thanksgiving night nationally televised battle, 53-21. FSU led 21-12 at the half but the second half barrage broke the game open and erased any hopes that the team may have had of going to a bowl.

EXPRESSION SHOWS THE OUTCOME—Virginia Tech's Bill House shows the beating he received at the hands of the improving Seminoles as the Tribe ripped Tech at homecoming 34-8.

Day Care Center Seeks Support

By Susan Robinson
Staff Writer

The executive board of the proposed FSU Day Care Center will meet with Paul Craig, vice president of student affairs, on Dec. 11 to determine how much university support the project can expect to receive for winter quarter, according to Center vice-chairman Chris Polivka.

The encounter forms the antithesis of months of hard work of the originators of the Center and the high hopes of non-academic university employees earning close to $3,000 per year, who must find day care for their children as best they can afford.

The administration has thus far concentrated its refusal to fund the project on grounds that it may not be academically relevant, said Mrs. Polivka.

Last summer, however, the Center staged a pilot run for 26 disadvantaged children of non-academic employees with funds provided by Student Government.

The children had previously been placed in high risk situations, Mrs. Polivka said, because their parents simply had no alternatives.

She cited as an example one employee who had been forced to leave her four children with a blind aunt in Quincy, a mile from the nearest telephone.

"High risk situations like that are bad enough, but to be completely disadvantaged as well is too far," she said. "The university has to accept the responsibility for that."

Academic relevance of the summer project was demonstrated by its documented success.

"We had evaluations from TTT (Trainers of Teacher Trainers), a regional group that spent some time with our Day Care Center this summer," said Mrs. Polivka. "They were extremely favorable in their reports.

"Dr. Nancy Douglas of the Department of Early Childhood Education was able to certify eight of her students through this project," she said.

Other students working with the program through Directed Independent Study "indicated that they really wished they had had this experience before," she added.

"With very, very good evaluations we asked Dr. Marshall if he could contribute at least partial university funding in fall quarter," she said.

"We weren't able to receive any funding from the administration, and so we went to state and federal agencies for financial help."

These sources indicated interest in the Center, but required that the university generate some tangible support before they themselves could help, she said.

Several weeks ago, the executive board approached Dr. Craig for winter quarter support.

Florida State Flambeau

Volume 57, No. 53

Friday, December 4, 1970

Due to space limitations, several informative articles could not be printed in today's Flambeau. Therefore a special "mini-edition" will be published on Monday.

Any press releases for the four page finals edition must be submitted to the Flambeau office, Room 326 Union, by 5 p.m. today.

LEAPING TO THEIR SECOND VICTORY—Rowland Garrett (23) rises over Biscayne College's Jim McCloud to score two of the Florida State Seminoles' 106 points as they downed the Bobcats in Tully Gym last night. FSU's Vernell Ellzy was the star of the game, scoring 35 points, 24 of those in the second half, and hauling in 16 rebounds. See story and pictures on page 14. (Photo by Bill Wood)

Responsible Government Chartered As Watch-dog

By Len Majors
Staff Writer

The Foundation for the Study of Responsible Government (FSRG), a non-partisan organization designed to act as a government watchdog, has recently been chartered.

Banks B. Vest, president of the organization and a professor of geography at Tallahassee Community College, described the activities of the group and outlined its past accomplishments and goals for the future.

Besides Vest, officers are Raymond McGuire, vice president; J. Michael Shea, secretary; and David Rasmussen, treasurer.

Prominent among the activities of the FSRG have been the suits filed against Jack Eckerd, recent candidate for governor, and Fred Schultz, recent candidate for U.S. Senate, for overspending in the 1970 campaigns. Both these suits failed, proving, Vest said, that the laws regulating campaigns are unenforceable.

Vest recently visited Ralph Nader and the staff of the Public Interest Research Group, with whom Vest shares a concern about the injustices of ad valorem taxes. Vest describes this tax system as one where the average taxpayer subsidizes the public officials and business enterprises in his area. Nader might aid the FSRG in its efforts to correct this situation, Vest said.

Other investigations underway by the Foundation include the collusion among public officials, favoritism in the awarding of state contracts, and incidences of outright corruption by state officials.

The structure of the FSRG is outlined in an information sheet published by the foundation. The purposes of the non-profit organization are expressed as being to increase the effectiveness and vitality of the government at all levels, to promote public concern, to promote public participation in the everyday affairs of government, to monitor the actions of the government, and to sponsor and conduct research concerning procedures and activities of government.

According to the information sheet, specific methods used in the exposition of unethical and/or illegal activities will include the establishment of an information system. Information compiled from various sources will be placed in the computerized system which will contain information about 25,000 persons connected with government in some regard. This information system will be used to monitor daily activities of government agencies and public officials.

Financial resources for the Foundation include the proceeds from the sale of memberships. Any amount donated registers a citizen as a member.

The core of the FSRG will be formed by a cadre of professionals in all areas throughout Florida. Students who are willing to work as volunteers or at cost in the research of the foundation will be of assistance to the group.

Telephone inquiries about the group may be made through Banks B. Vest, Jr. at 576-5181.

Senate Blocks SST

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a stunning reversal of sentiment, the Senate voted 52 to 41 Thursday to halt development of the giant Supersonic Transport plane SST, cornerstone of the United States' bid to maintain its superiority in world aviation.

"Today the environmental issue has come of age," said Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., after the vote that saw 23 senators, including assistant GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin and 11 other Republicans, swing over to the side of SST opponents.

Despite earlier concessions from SST supporters, the Senate voted to deny President Nixon's request for a third installment of $290 million to develop and test fly two prototypes of the 1,800 mile per hour craft.

Congress already has appropriated nearly $700 million toward the $1.3 billion cost of putting the plane into the air. Last year's Senate vote was 58 to 22 in favor of continued development.

The House approved the full $290 million request, and a House-Senate conference committee will now decide how much—if any—money to recommend.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe issued a statement promising a fight in conference for restoration of the money.

Horne Received Info About Prof

Tallahassee area state Senator Mallory Horne was identified as the senator who received information concerning the unknown FSU professor who promised his class an "A" if they wrote a story concerning the Abbie Hoffman appearance.

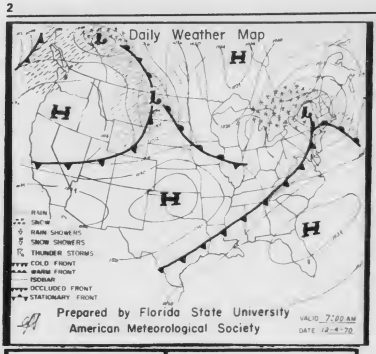

Horne was reported in the Tallahassee Democrat as saying his evidence was "hearsay."

Horne said that he got his information from a parent who had talked with a student.

According to the Democrat, Horne said that he filed an informal report with Senate President Jerry Thomas on the matter.

The Flambeau made several attempts to contact Sen. Horne, but each time was told that Horne was out to dinner, out to lunch or was in a meeting. Horne failed to return any of the Flambeau calls.

A spokesman for President Stanley Marshall's office said that they had no new information.

flambeau weather

By Gregory Tripoli
Flambeau Meteorologist

The high pressure ridge which has been bringing us unseasonably warm temperatures is expected to continue to dominate our weather for the next couple of days. An approaching weak cold front will probably not make it here and if it does, little temperature change is likely. However, its impulse may touch off a few scattered showers this afternoon.

The high today will be near 80 under partly cloudy skies and the low tonight will be near 50. Tomorrow and Sunday will be continued fair and mild with daytime temperatures reaching the upper 70s.

Final Flicks Of Quarter

By Joe Siclari
Staff Writer

Final films to be shown this quarter by the Union Film Committee are Petulia, The Swimmer and Casino Royale. Admission to each film is 50 cents.

Julie Christie and George C. Scott star in Petulia, which is to be shown Friday night only at 7 and 9:30 p.m. in Diamond Auditorium.

In a satire on modern American marriages, British director Richard Lester has made a film study of love, marriage and the "American way." He focuses on the interaction of males and females in wedlock in the Sixties. Lester is famous for such films as Help and A Funny Thing Happened On the Way to the Forum.

The stars play the role of a couple unable to love each other but struggling to attain it. The background consists of people with the same problem. Their tangled interaction is the subject of Petulia. Tijuana Toads, a cartoon, will also be shown.

Saturday's campus movie is The Swimmer starring Burt Lancaster. The film will be shown at 7 and 9:30 p.m. in Diamond Auditorium.

The Swimmer is an adaptation of John Cheever's short story about a Connecticut suburbanite. Lancaster plays Neddy Merrill, a man past his prime who tries to prove himself by his odd way of going home--he swims through his neighbors' pools.

His trip becomes a nightmare as his "friends" react adversely to his behavior.

Flicks for Finals will be shown next Tuesday and Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in Moore Auditorium. The film both nights is Casino Royale starring Peter Sellers, Ursula Andress, David Niven, Woody Allen and many others.

Casino Royale is a spy-circus with five directors and innumerable stars joined in a wild spy-spoof of James Bond. James comes out of retirement when SMERSH threatens the world.

To out-fox the crime cartel Bond decides to initiate more than one 007. With new 007s in almost every scene, the story is complicated beyond description.

Liberal Studies Credit Check

The Registrar's Office today announced that students graduating in March, June or August of 1971 should come to Room 214 Dining Hall and have their liberal studies credits checked.

Students graduating in March must apply for their degrees no later than January 22. The Registrar's Office recommends that the applications be made as soon as possible to avoid delay.

Lighting Of Tree, Caroling Sunday

The traditional lighting of President Marshall's Christmas tree will be held Sunday at 7:30 p.m., followed by campus groups caroling from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma will be in charge of organizing the caroling. Members of Omicron Delta Kappa and Garnet Key will assist Presiden and Mrs. Marshall during the open house.

Groups planning to carol are asked to register with the Office of Student Activities and Organizations in Room 350 Union, or call 599-4725, in order that the number of carolers may be evenly distributed throughout the evening.

African Folk Mass Staged

A Christmas pageant will be held in the upper gallery of the university art gallery Saturday night at 8:30.

The pageant, presented by the Dance Theater group and the Choral Union, will be staged around a baroque altar piece on loan from the Ringling Museum of Art in Sarasota.

An African folk mass and traditional seasonal music will be staged around the altar piece.

CRICISAM Announces Three New Members

Three new members of the Center for Research in College Instruction of Science and Mathematics have been announced by Dr. Guenter Schwarz, director of CRICISAM and professor of physics at Florida State.

Florida State has been host institution and fiscal agent to the organization since it began operation in April, 1966.

The additional member institutions are Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.; Florida Presbyterian College, St. Petersburg, Fla.; and St. Andrews Presbyterian College, Laurinburg, N.C. This brings the number of members to 20.

At a recent meeting of the CRICISAM Board of Governors, a new executive committee, headed by Dr. Leland Shanor of the University of Florida as chairman, was chosen.

Other members are Dr. Joseph Straley, University of North Carolina, vice chairman; Dr. Morton Curtis, Rice University, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Mark Jones, Vanderbilt University, and Dr. Bruce Nelson, University of South Carolina, members at large.

A statement giving special recognition to Dr. Straley, who has served as chairman of the Board of Governors since May, 1967, was read into the record by Dr. Russell Johnsen, professor of chemistry at Florida State.

New board members are Richard V. Andree, University of Oklahoma; George C. Caldwell and James M. Tanner, Georgia Institute of Technology; Morton L. Curtis, Rice University; S. Duncan Heron Jr., Duke University; Z.Z. Hugus, North Carolina State University; and M.D. Socolofsky, Louisiana State University.

Dr. Schwarz also announced that the third in a series of meetings of a National Advisory Committee to CRICISAM will be held Dec. 4 and 5 at New York University. The committee, concerned with the development of a computer-oriented course in ordinary differential equations, is funded by the National Science Foundation.

The study should result in an outline for a text to be prepared at the Center as a sequel to the "Computer Oriented Calculus" text, now in its third printing and used in 70 colleges and universities across the United States.

ULYSSES AND TELEMACHUS—David Wasson and David Ogg perform in two leading roles in Monteverdi's "Return of Ulysses", premiered at the Tallahassee Little Theatre tonight, Saturday and Sunday at 8:15 p.m. Tickets at $2 for students and $3 general admission are still available by contacting 224-8474 between 9 a.m. and noon. The production is directed by James Fowler.

Professor Publishes Poetry Collection

Harry Morris, professor of English, published his third poetry collection, The Snake Hunter, this fall through the University of Georgia Press.

Dr. Robert Buffington, also of the Department of English, was co-editor of the book.

The collection is broken down into three subject headings: "Field", "Chamber", and "Grave". The title poem appears under the first subject heading, which is mainly devoted to nature. The tone of this section ranges from witty to serious; the language from colloquial to studied.

In "Chamber", the poet explores aspects of enclosure and alienation, turning to historical legends and fairy tales such as Raleigh and Rapunzel.

"Grave" concerns death in nature and death in the heart.

This third collection includes a number of new poems as well as poems Morris previously published in the Suwanee Review, College English, University Review, Prairie Schooner, Southern Poetry Review and other periodicals.

Students Hurt

Some professors at Florida State may soon find themselves on the hot seat. Recently two incidents have been brought to light which have warranted investigation by those in command.

Senator Jerry Thomas has accused professors of giving students high grades because they attended the Abbie Hoffman performance on campus. Attention brought to this alleged incident by the state wire services has prompted President Marshall to investigate the situation.

Students around campus have mentioned certain university departments, among them religion and social sciences, as the culprits. But as yet, no one has been officially charged with the practice.

In a letter to the editor, a student has complained about teachers humiliating their students in front of the entire class because they are displeased with their work.

The first incident could have been avoided possibly if it is true. The teachers could have, instead of promising a particular grade, given extra credit to students in the form of extra points or in place of a quiz.

The second incident is to be entirely condemned. No student wants to sit in fear of reprimand for his work before the entire class. If a teacher wishes to correct a student, a more suitable solution would be a private conference with constructive criticism.

What avenues the administration will follow, if any, are questionable. Guilty professors could possibly be fired if the incidents reached significant proportions. In the long run, the students will be hurt.

A Retraction

The quotation which appeared in yesterday's Flambeau editorial entitled "Law and Order" which was attributed to Hitler cannot be confirmed.

It was brought to the Flambeau's attention that according to the New York Times, "A check in compilations of Hitler quotations and speeches produced nothing similar."

The mistake was due to a failure of the Flambeau to double-check its source of information.

Prof Humiliates Student

To the Editor:

Recently, a student received a paper back in her modern language course. Obviously, the teacher did not feel that a poor grade would be punishment enough for the work, and he proceeded to ridicule and humiliate the student in front of her classmates with "catchy" phrases on the order of "This is the worst paper I have ever read in my life," and "I really never should have accepted this paper in the first place." Of course, the student was dejected and quite thoroughly disgusted with the course.

As a member of the NSA Task Force, who, among other things, is concerned with communication between students, faculty and administration, I went to the modern languages department to discuss the matter with the chairman of the department, Dr. Henry Hoge.

After talking to Dr. Hoge for awhile, we discovered that we both were concerned with the same problem; we were both seeking the same goal—the finest possible liberal arts education made available to students at FSU. It was agreed that insults and humiliation directed toward students in class have no room in a good educational program.

To the professor, or professors, who "teach" in such manners, please step down off your high pedestals and grow up a little. You do not have to prove your "brilliance" by humiliating the students in your class.

To Dr. Hoge, I personally thank you for your time and consideration of the matter. Since his department is unable to expand, his ultimate goal is to make what he has the best possible. He is prepared to expell an incompetent from his department if it means improving the modern language program.

I sincerely hope that other department heads at FSU are as open-minded and show as much concern for the students as Dr. Hoge.

Give Christmas Toys To Tots

To the Editor:

There is no Christmas this year. For some if will just be another cold and bleak December morning. These are the underprivileged children of Tallahassee. FSU Circle K is trying to bring Christmas to these children. Would you mind helping?

Toys for Tots is the answer. Toys for Tots is an annual drive to help underprivileged children enjoy Christmas. With Toys for Tots, students contribute toys, whether old or new, at pick-up boxes located at various dorms, sororities and fraternities around campus.

The coeds of FSU, both Greek and independents, have the power to help Toys for Tots. Starting today, each coed gets a toy from her escort and puts it in a Circle K pick-up box before she goes out on the date. Girls, be strong! Tell your escort, no toy means no date for this final week before Christmas.

If no Toys for Tots pick-up box is in your residence hall, please contact the Circle K house at 661 W. Pensacola, 224-8621, or Dan McGarry at 222-8110.

The underprivileged children of Tallahassee and FSU Circle K thank all students in advance for their contributions.

And men!! Don't be left out in the cold. Bring your date a toy.

Dan McGarry
Secretary, FSU Circle K

Chiefs Up For ABC Honor

To the Editor:

FSU's football season has come to an end for this year and our team did their best to bring home that great distinction of going to a bowl game. Well, we know the outcome of their struggle. They did not finish the season undefeated in games but definitely so in spirit and accomplishment.

There is another group of individuals that is still in the running for that mythical end-of-season trophy which is in the form of a contest being sponsored by the ABC television network. This team of master craftsmen is thus far "undefeated" in their struggle to keep the distinction of being the best on ABC this year from the hands of such schools as Ohio State and UCLA.

These individuals have been at every home football game and some away games, a record that few Seminole boosters can beat. They have at times attracted more attention from the audiences than the battling teams on the field. They have received laudatory comments from such famous personalities as Les Brown and President Nixon. Their performance of "In-A-Gadda-Da-Vida" and "Fancy Colors" entwined with intricate marching formations has been acclaimed by many, even the WTAL DJs.

Their recent unanimous victory over the Houston Cougar band was the last step up to the ABC final selection. Next week an impartial (I hope) group of judges will decide whether or not their efforts were well-spent.

I have been speaking of the or one of the, most spirited groups of Indians in Seminole Country—the Marching Chiefs.

I am sure that all of the students here at FSU and Seminole fans everywhere join me in saying well done to the team and good luck to the Chiefs.

Harding Chorus Low Attendance

To the Editor:

For those who did not attend Tuesday night's concert by the a capella chorus from Harding College, it was your loss. If Harding graduates and friends had not attended, there would have been perhaps 50 people in the audience. Had it not been for a small announcement in the Flambeau, I, too, wouldn't have gone. It appears whoever was in charge of publicizing the chorus failed miserably in their job—assuming they had more than one or two days' notice of the concert. The chorus, 45 strong, sang for over 90 minutes without benefit of either music or accompaniment. Their range, tremendous power and superb harmony and balance equaled any chorus of any size I have heard. The repertoire ranged from sacred to modern, and their rendition of the Hallelujah Chorus would put most large choruses to shame. It was truly an inspiring and worthwhile evening, and the university community should be ashamed at the meager turnout. Although the chorus was given a well-deserved standing ovation, a larger audience might have been more appreciated by the performers. I'm sure the Harding chorus is the finest that will ever appear at FSU.

Sherman To Molehill

To the Editor:

Referring to the editorial in Monday's Flambeau, we, the undersigned, would like to say that we haven't changed our opinions of Chuck Sherman since he first ran for Student Body President. We do not approve of most of Sherman's actions as Student Body President (exceptions: Center for Participant Education, in principle; Union Information Table).

As for the Flambeau's comparison of Sherman with Senator Kennedy, may we ask if Sherman's troubles have been raised to a mountain, or Senator Kennedy's troubles reduced to a molehill?

ACTION LINE

Q. Because I always get late registration times, I would like to know what method is used for selecting them. Steve Morrison.

A. According to Mrs. Arnold, a secretary of the registrar's office, early preference times for the regular registration periods are given to recipients of athletic scholarships, students in the honor's system, blind or handicapped students, the editor of the Flambeau, the student body president, and all seniors. All other students times are chosen at random.

Law students and interns have the advantage of an early registration, approximately a month ahead of the regular period. All incoming freshman for the fall quarter may attend an early registration held in June.

Q. In the November 23 issue of the Flambeau there was an item about poetry competition. The address given was merely Voices of Poetry 1971, Elman Publishing House, but no city or state. Please print the complete address as soon as possible as there is a December 15 deadline. Thank you. Andrea Schulman

A. The address is: Elman Publishing House, 56 Edgewood Ave., Clifton, New Jersey 07012.

Q. Why were scaffolds placed in one of only two four-walled handball courts for three weeks with almost no work being done during this period? What are the prospects for getting additional courts on campus? Robert Gilmore.

A. A lack of materials has caused the scaffolding to be left for such a long period of time. Because of the Flambeau inquiry, the scaffolding will be removed until all necessary materials and equipment have arrived. At the present time, there is not enough money to build additional courts.

Abolish SG, Create Senate

To the Editor:

In regard to Mr. Polivka's letter of December 3, you comment on the unfairness to students by the Board of Regents (BOR) and President Marshall.

Why hasn't Student Government (SG) done something about it? After all, doesn't Student Government represent us, the student body, on these matters of common concern?

We all know the answer is no; you, SG, do not represent us. The decision-making processes of the university are separate from SG. They lie in the President and the BOR.

Student Government is now and has been ineffective in dealing with the common problems that you mentioned.

Therefore, the present structure of SG should be abolished.

A University Senate should be created through an adaptation of the Cornell Plan. It would represent students, faculty, administrators, and possibly the BOR and the non-academic employees.

University Senate is an alternative to ineffective Student Government. It is in use at Cornell and Columbia.

So, Larry, the points in your letter are valid. But as we students know, SG can't do anything about them. SG must be abolished and the inevitable University Senate will be created.

Phil Halstead

Kennedy Similarity Questionable

To the Editor:

This letter is written in response to your editorial of December 1. Edward M. Kennedy is the last surviving son of a famous, wealthy and very political family. He is a world-wide figure. His auto accident resulted in the death of an individual and he was charged with a traffic misdemeanor. Mr. Sherman is a graduate student and FSU student body president. His crime is a felony and carries the maximum penalty of 5 years and $5,000.00 fine. No personal injury resulted from Mr. Sherman's act but perhaps to himself and the reputation of FSU. Therefore, I seriously question your analogous comparison of the two individuals—each involved in situations whose only similarity is that the individual was lax and irresponsible.

Mr. Sherman's administration's successes and failures are resultant from many factors other than his direct participation. I believe the university community has the ability to weigh Mr. Sherman's administrations' accomplishments on their own merits, thus I question the conclusion that Mr. Sherman's actions discredited much more than himself.

The BOR and the Florida Legislature will not be influenced or "tempered" to any degree by authorities who advocate the legalization of marijuana. At this point in time in the State of Florida, the possession of marijuana is a felony, whether it is right or wrong. I question your ability to second guess the student body's selection of leaders at some future date particularly in light of the fact that those leaders, and I must assume you mean the future President of the Student Body, including their hair length and political persuasions are not as yet declared.

Mr. Sherman's arrest is a very unfortunate situation for him and the entire university community. I do not believe it is helped by further publicity.

FSU Football Team Needs More Pride

To the Editor:

Your editorial of December 2, regarding the Houston game, wasn't a very good excuse for our performance.

This is my last football season as a student, but in the past I have always had the opinion that we lost the Florida and Houston games before ever going on the field.

The fans, faculty, students, team and coaching staff have come to expect us to lose these games and until this no-win attitude is reversed, we will continue to lose to these teams. Our team and coaching staff are equal with our opponents'; they just have a no-win attitude in these two games.

I find it difficult to tolerate this attitude season after season. I take pride in knowing FSU is the best school in Florida or the South for that matter. Our teams and coaching staff need to take more pride in their efforts against Florida and Houston.

'Central Paradise' Aids Drug Addicts

By Ann Frechette
Staff Writer

Project 613, Central Paradise, or simply "613" is an operation geared to helping solve the drug problem in Tallahassee and the surrounding area.

Conceived and operated by youths themselves, 613 provides the bad tripper and the hard drug user a place where he or she can talk to people who have gone through like experiences.

According to a member of the 613 staff, "Originally the impetus for 613 was complaints from a large number of local and college people about the poor attitudes which prevail at both Tallahassee Memorial Hospital (TMH) and the FSU Health Center toward drug users.

"People who were having a bad trip would go to TMH or the infirmary and get treated with an attitude of contempt and in some cases outright hostility, which only increases the trauma of the drug experience.

"Some of these obstacles to treatment can be corrected and some cannot. There is more to understanding the youth drug culture than simply medical competence. The gap is medical, social, age-oriented and psychological," the staff member said.

"613 operates as a sort of 'Alcoholics Anonymous' for the drug user. Except in rare instances, the best understanding of any problem comes from a person who has had the same experiences."

When someone enters 613 he is usually greeted first by the staff member on duty. Staff members of 613 are primarily of his or her peer group and have had experience with drugs. The staff member asks if the new arrival is carrying drugs and if he or she is, is asked to leave and come back "clean." No drugs of any sort, not even aspirin, are allowed on the premises.

If the person is having a bad trip the staff member will engage the person in conversation, take him or her to a quiet room or do whatever the staff member feels is the appropriate course of action.

To help aid people gain creative and self-supporting outlets, 613 is actively involved in trying to set up a job referral service for one or two day jobs and permanent employment.

Tallahassee Women's Liberation offers counseling on Wednesday nights between 6 and 9 p.m. at 613 to people who need information about birth control, VD, local day-care centers and motherhood counseling.

Draft counseling is also available through 613 on Wednesdays from 6 to 9 p.m. A student nurse is on duty from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m. for treatment of cuts, nutritional and other minor medical problems.

According to the 613 staff, "We need money to continue operating. Money is a sad thing to worry about, but we have to. If you can spare anything to help out it would be greatly appreciated."

Donations can be left in the donation box at 613 or can be mailed to Central Paradise, Project 613, 613 W. Pensacola St., Tallahassee. Make checks payable to the Luther House Discretionary Fund.

Members of the 613 staff will also be in the Union Arcade today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A car wash will be held Saturday, Dec. 5, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Gulf station at Monroe and Tennessee to raise money.

Piper Plays For Holidays

The Pied Piper Players of Florida State will bring holiday fun to elementary-age children on Saturday, Dec. 5, as they perform on the stage of Conradi Theater.

Shows will be presented at 10 and 11 a.m. and the 25-cent tickets will be available at the door before each show.

Christmas stories, songs and improvisations—both traditional and original—will be enacted by the band of players led by the Pied Piper, Ed Berry, a graduate student from Tallahassee.

The Night Before Christmas and Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer will be followed by The Toy Machines of Santa's Workshop. The young audience will choose the toys they want the "machine" to make. Then, the players will "manufacture" them with a living interpretation of a machine. Animated dolls, space monsters and supercars will probably be among the results.

GRK Exams

Florida State University will administer the Graduate Reading Knowledge Exams (GRK) in Foreign Languages for all applicants on Saturday, Dec. 5.

The examinations will be held at 10 a.m. in Rooms 220, 221 and 222 of the Bellamy Building. Applications for taking the exams should be made well in advance, in Room 103 of Sandels Building, according to Miss Eva May Atwood of Florida State's Department of Modern

Fiat makes it young

Makes the fun of driving easy to afford—now! Even on young budgets. The 850 Sport Spider and Sport Coupe are so easy to own they're almost "beginner's cars" for the sport enthusiast. Yet each one is fully equipped with real sport car details like a dash-mounted tachometer, direct reading fuel, temperature and oil gauges, front-wheel disc brakes, radial-ply tires, contoured bucket seats and a sure-stroking four-forward speed synchromeshed stick shift.

The Spider is an authentic Bertone body. Tells you right away why a Spider seats only two!

The Coupe has a rear seat for really close friends and the same sporting stance and equipment as the Spider.

FIAT

At your dealer now, fully equipped, really rally ready. Come in and ask: How does Fiat do it for the Price?

Dark commentaries on urban violence, air pollution, and the individual's quest for identity are facets of this weekend's production of Frank Gagliano's The City Scene. The City Scene will open tomorrow night at 8:15 and will run Sunday night at 8:15 and 11:15, and Monday night at 8:15. Presented by Studio Theatre, all performances will be held in Conradi Theatre. Admission is 50 cents.

Gagliano, a native of New York City, set the two one-act plays that make up the production in that urban environment. Paradise Gardens East, the first play of the sequence, is located in a high-rise apartment, while Conerico Was Here To Stay is set in a New York City subway.

Directed by graduate student David Dannenbaum, the cast includes Peter Saputo, Carolyn Werner, Bud Ritch, Jackie Campbell, Wellington Mefferts, Rod Bonds and Gilette Elvgren.

Gagliano, long fascinated by the graffiti written on the New York City subway walls, drew the second sequence title from an actual phrase written on one such wall. "I kept seeing 'Conerico Was Here To Stay' scribbled at various subway stations," he said.

"It was very hard to interpret," he continued. "I asked some Spanish people I knew what it might mean, and they came up with some very lewd interpretations."

Two incidents in the play, he admitted, were taken from stories in the New York Times. "I took them out of the papers," he said, "because I was so very much into that whole quest of the violence, the urban scene, and the deterioration of the city."

Conerico, in its subway setting, is the more serious of the two play. Paradise Gardens East, located in a high-rise apartment by way of contrast, was written, said Gagliano, in a lighter vein.

According to director Dannenbaum, a graffiti wall will be erected in the lobby of Conradi Theatre during the play's run. Members of the audience will be invited to submit creative scribblings to the edifice.

JAZZMATAZZ
. . .the Jazz Lab Band gets in the swing for the Sunday show.

Jazz-Rock Ensembles Feature New Equipment

Electronic equipment and a contemporary beat will fill Moore Auditorium on Sunday, Dec. 6 when the Jazz-Rock Lab Ensembles perform at 2 p.m.

An improvisational rendition of all new works, featuring electronic versions of such common instruments as piano, organ and guitar, will be featured in the concert.

The program is being presented by students in the Fifth and Seventh Jazz-Rock Ensembles and a Jazz Combo.

Among the familiar tunes to be performed will be "Charade," "Scarborough Fair" and "West Side Story." Also on the program are "Dorian Blue," "Bob's Folly," "Muddy Boogy River Blues," "Acid West," and "Miles Behind."

The groups, which are a part of the music school's new program in contemporary musical expression, are under the direction of assistant professor Richard Mayo.

Cards Sold For Charity

Volunteer Placement and Human Needs Services announced that the Leon County Mental Health Association, in conjunction with the Criswell House, will be selling Christmas cards for those who still need them and would like to contribute to a worthwhile cause.

Mrs. Diane Foote, the executive secretary for the Mental Health Association, stated that the cards will be on sale on Saturday, between 11 a.m. and 9 p.m. in front of Mendelsohn's downtown Department Store.

Wagner Music 'And' Bust

A program of Wagnerian music will be presented by the FSU Symphony in honor of a visiting German consul at 8:15 p.m. Dec. 8, in Ruby Diamond Auditorium.

During the concert program the Honorable Roland H.A. Gottlieb, from the German Consulate in Atlanta, Ga., will present a bust of composer Richard Wagner to the School of Music.

The bronze bust, cast in 1878 by artist Melchior Anton zur Strassen, is being given to Florida State in recognition of the Music School's excellent faculty and strong curriculum in Wagnerian music.

Featured soloists will be soprano Jeanetta Pecorallo (Mrs. Eugene Talley-Schmidt), tenor Eugene Talley-Schmidt and bass-baritone Randolph Symonette.

Conductor of the symphony is Robert Sedore and guest conductor for the evening will be Dr. John Boda.

Miss Percorello and Talley-Schmidt will sing a selection from Die Walkyre with John Boda conducting. Symonette will be featured in selections from The Flying Dutchman, Die Meistersingers von Nurnberg and Das Rheingold sopranos will be Sarah Rideout of Palatka, and Virginia Pyle and mezzo-soprano Joanne Lindstrom of Tallahassee.

Talley-Schmidt, assistant professor of voice at Florida State, came here after a successful career as leading tenor in Germany's major opera houses. He studied on a Fulbright scholarship in Rome, and on other scholarships, in Vienna and Salzburg. He was engaged as leading tenor in Muenster, Germany, and from there he advanced to Dusseldorf, Hamburg, Cologne and Wuppertal. He also filled engagements in Austria, Switzerland and Holland.

Mrs. Talley-Schmidt also studied in Italy through Fulbright grants. Following her debut at the Rome Opera, she was engaged by Italian radio and television and German radio for performances in opera, oratorio and recital. She has performed throughout Europe in solo and joint recitals with her husband.

Symonette made his first professional appearance on Broadway in the musical, The Firebrand of Florence, by Kurt Weill. While touring France with the opera, The Consul, he was heard by Professor Karl Maria Zwissler, who engaged him to sing with the Municipal Opera of Mainz, Germany. He had his debut there as Hans Sachs in Die Meistersingers, the first American to sing the part in Germany. The following year he was engaged by the Dusseldorf Opera. He sang at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York during the 1961-62 season.

Sedore, director of orchestras and conductor of the University Symphony and State Symphony of Florida, is well-known both as a conductor and a violist. He is associate professor of music and has been a member of the FSU faculty since 1947.

Boda has been on the faculty at Florida State since 1947 and is a professor of theory, composition, piano and director of dissertations in composition. He is a well-known composer in the Southeast and later this month he willpremiere, with the Chamber Orchestra, another of his works featuring the Moog Synthesizer. Dr. Boda teaches a popular seminar in opera literature for graduate students, with one quarter devoted to the Ring Cycle of Wagner and another to Wagnerian operas.

Copenhagen's Marionettes

Mr. Jacques Schweitzer, a marionettist from Copenhagen, will present a marionette show at 8 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 5, in Moore Auditorium.

Mr. Schweitzer has presented his marionette show in more than 25 countries throughout the world, and he has appeared on stage, television, and in schools, hospitals, and army theatres. He currently is on a tour of the United States, and will be coming to Tallahassee following shows in Jacksonville, Miami, and Tampa. His tour on the North American continent began in Canada and will end in Mexico.

Schweitzer's show is being sponsored by the FSU Baha'i Club. The public is invited to attend free of charge

IMB: A Leader In Research Work

Dr. Leo Mandelkern has been named associate director of the Institute of Molecular Biophysics, Dr. Michael Kasha, institute director, announced.

Dr. Mandelkern served as acting director last year while Dr. Kasha was on a leave of absence.

The Institute of Molecular Biophysics was organized in 1959 and is currently doing research in 14 fields. Some of the experiments are related to cancer research and studies of the atmosphere relating to production of smog.

This year's research grant from the Atomic Energy Commission was for $634,000, bring the total received since 1959 to $6,690,000.

President Stanley Marshall said: "The continuing support of the Atomic Energy Commission, in a time when most research funds are being reduced, is clear evidence of the high regard in which this institute is held in international scientific circles. Most of this is due directly to the proficiency of Dr. Kasha, but with the able assistance of Dr. Mandelkern and many other associates."

Dr. Kasha is internationally known for his research in molecular spectroscopy and singlet oxygen excitation. He has been at Florida State 20 years and was named Distinguished Professor of the Year in 1962.

Dr. Mandelkern has been named a member of the institute research staff and a professor of chemistry since 1962. He has an international reputation for his research in the polymerization of macro-molecules.

The long-term mission of the institute is to try to understand the nature of radiation damage in living systems, with the possible role of effecting control of radiation damage. Numerous international symposiums have featured research work done by members of the institute and the scientific publications of its researchers are widely recognized.

The staff of the institute totals 160, including 14 professors, 75 graduate students and 30 post-doctoral fellows. More than 100 scientific papers are published by students and faculty each year.

Dr. Kasha said many students who have received their graduate degrees or post-doctoral training at the institute have been placed in substantial positions nationally. Many foreign students have been attracted to work with faculty members of the institute.

The research work of the Institute of Molecular Biophysics covers some 14 fields, ranging from molecular genetics, developmental biology, virology and sensory biophysics to studies in macro-molecular properties and molecular spectroscopic phenomena related to biophysical systems.

Numerous discoveries of a detailed kind in the institute's work offer important steps toward the understanding of biological phenomena and radiation biological phenomena on the molecular scale. Recently one of the research groups has been involved in the elucidation of the properties of a previously unsuspected type of molecular oxygen—singlet molecular oxygen, which had only been observed previously in the stratosphere and rarefied gases.

The field has now evolved to become such an extensively developed one that last year the New York Academy of Sciences held a national symposium on the subject. Today singlet molecular oxygen is recognized as an important chemical species, even affecting smog production in the atmosphere, and occurring widely in chemical and probably biological systems. One of the chief research topics in the institute today is the search for singlet molecular oxygen in radiation experiments.

Why doesn't General Electric sell new ideas to the cities instead of new gadgets to the suburbs?

After thirty years or more of neglect, there's no question our cities need help.

But what kind of help?

Will another thousand sanitation men be the answer to dirty streets?

Will doubling the police force finally bring crime under control?

Can new rent laws force landlords to provide more low-income housing?

All the old, obvious ideas have been tried. What's needed are new ideas and new technological developments.

General Electric has been working on the problems of cities for a number of years now. And in that time we've come up with some things we think will help.

Garbage

General Electric research has come up with what is probably the most revolutionary idea in garbage disposal in years. Our scientists are working toward a process by which a special strain of bacteria converts garbage into a high-protein food for cattle.

The process is still something of a "laboratory trick," but it could be in the pilot-plant stage in as little as three years.

Crime

You might not expect a company like General Electric to be doing anything about crime.

But the fact is, GE has been working with the Syracuse police, looking for a new approach to the problem. Our scientists there came up with a whole new concept in police organization called "Crime Control Teams."

In their first year, these teams were credited with cutting crime 62% in one large representative neighborhood of Syracuse. And the concept has since been adopted by a number of other cities.

Housing

To meet the critical need for new low-income housing, General Electric is participating in the Department of Housing and Urban Development's Operation Breakthrough.

While GE has no intention of going into commercial home building, we do hope to supply the builder-developer with new products needed to improve his efficiency.

We now have several design prototypes of advanced, modular homes that can be assembled in a matter of hours.

These are just a few of the new ideas General Electric has come up with to help cities at the same time that we continue to improve "gadgets" to help people.

We don't think our home products are at all unnecessary or frivolous. If they seem that way, it's because people have forgotten how much they rely on them. To wash dishes. To wash clothes. To keep warm. To keep cool. To entertain. And on and on.

New ideas for the cities and new "gadgets" for the home both have the same end in mind, after all. To help people live better.

Why are we running this ad?

We're running this ad, and others like it, to tell you the things General Electric is doing to solve the problems of man and his environment today.

The problems concern us because they concern you. We're a business and you are potential customers and employees.

But there's another more important reason. These problems will affect the future of this country and this planet. We have a stake in that future. As businessmen. And, simply, as people.

We invite your comments. Please write to General Electric, 570 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022.

Glee Club Presents Vespers Concert

The Women's Glee Club will present their 54th Vespers Concert in Ruby Diamond Auditorium Sunday, Dec. 6, at 5 p.m.

The free public program of traditional and modern Christmas music will be directed by associate professor Betty Jane Grimm, assisted by Cornelia Yarbrough. Accompanists will be Julie Rivers and Lee Orr.

The Reverend Marjorie Matthews of St. Paul's United Methodist Church will give the invocation and benediction.

A highlight of the program will be the Ave Maria written by Harry Robert Wilson. Published in 1963, it was written especially for the glee club and is dedicated to the organization and its director, Miss Grimm.

Among the featured selections will be the Vaughn-Williams Magnificat, with soloists Debra Guedry and Susan Clements. Flutists Larry Attaway and Brad Meyerdierks will be featured in "Happy Flocks in Safety Wander" by Bach. "The Angels and the Shepherds" by Kodaly will have as soloists Robin Core and Pamela Jane Bethea.

The Women's Glee Club, founded in 1911, is the oldest performing organization on campus. The Christmas Vespers, which began in 1916, is one of the university's best-known traditions.

International Club Party

The International Club at 930 W. Jefferson will hold a pre-Christmas party for the children of club members and interested faculty at 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5.

An open house and coffee is scheduled for Sunday from 6 p.m. Interested persons are invited to attend.

Piano Program

Modern Styles Featured

A program of piano music, displaying modern styles learned on their recent European trip, will be presented by Norma and Leonard Mastrogiacomo in a concert on Monday, Dec. 7 at 8:15 p.m. in Opperman Music Hall.

Mastrogiacomo was a recipient of a Florida State University Faculty Development Grant in 1969-70 and spent the year in Europe studying contemporary music for two pianos and for duets on a single piano.

The works performed by the husband and wife team will display various contemporary styles in composition—from traditionally oriented works such as the "Music for Two Pianos" by Francis Burt of England to the light, satirical dance movements of the "Divertimenti" by Hans Werner Henze of Germany.

"Polyphone II" by Jacques Guyonnet of Switzerland and the Tocatta by Renato de Grandis of Italy are also on the program. Opening the concert in a traditional manner will be the Mozart Sonata in D for Two Pianos along with a selected group from the "Legends," written for duet piano by Dvorak.

The Mastrogiacomos began playing duo-piano concerts when both were students at the Chicago Musical College. During the present season they presented a duo-piano concert as the opening program of the Cummer Art Gallery Artists Series. They will appear with the Florida Philharmonic in Clearwater and St. Petersburg in April.

Mastrogiacomo is an assistant professor of music who received his training at the Chicago Musical College and the Julliard School of Music. In addition, he studied in Italy. He has presented solo concerts in both Europe and the United States.

Mrs. Mastrogiacomo studied at the Chicago Musical College and received her Master of Music degree from Northwestern University. She has also studied in Italy at the Cherubini Conservatory in Florence. Besides appearing in numerous concerts, she has served as assistant company pianist for the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in New York.

The program is free and open to the public.

BEER TALK
by Ed McMahon
In which the candid connoisseur answers questions about Beer, and the drinking of same.

DEAR ED: I'm burned up because after a weekend romp in the woods, I forgot to put a leftover 6-pak of Budweiser in the refrigerator. Everybody says you can't chill beer twice, so what should I do?
FUMING

DEAR FUMING: First, cool off, pal. Then cool off that Bud to your heart's content (or about 40°).

There's no problem, because a really good beer like Budweiser is just as good when you ice it twice.

Miers Leads ZPG Lectures

By Edward Nussbaum
Staff Writer

"It's our country, our future and it's got to be our responsibility," said Dr. Miley Miers, state representative, at the first Zero Population Growth (ZPG) lecture series.

Jim Doyle, from FSU's Department of Urban and Regional Planning and Dr. Don Rapp, assistant head of the Institute of Human Development at FSU, were also guest speakers for ZPG.

Doyle examined the world food shortage and the limits of the earth in producing enough food to supply the vast population.

Doyle pointed out some predictions as to the limitations of the earth. "The U.S. represents 6 percent of the world's population, yet we consume 50 percent of the world's wealth. At this current level of consumption, the earth's capacity to house a population the size of today's would last for only another 100 to 300 years.

"1961," said Doyle, "was the turning point in the food supply. We were consuming more than we produced. The greater the population, the more demand there is for food.

"Urbanization and industrialization have removed much of our land and cattle. Today there is a worldwide demand for farming technology. Perhaps our prospects for food from the sea are best."

Dr. Miers, as a state representative, has been concerned with an abortion bill since his election in 1966. His abortion legislation concerns revising the present Florida law which makes abortion legal only when the life of the mother in endangered.

"This is inhumane," said Miers. "Our 1966 bill legalized abortion for circumstances of rape, incest and of course when the mother was endangered.

"The wealthy can afford abortions," said Miers, "but they are not the majority who need them. The majority are not unwed women either, but women who are married and have one to three children already."

The bill that Miers is trying to adopt in Florida is similar to Hawaii's bill. In Hawaii, any woman may receive an abortion providing it is done by a qualified physician in a hospital and the woman has been a resident for three months. This is the bill he suggests for Florida except it would require a six-month residency.

Rapp spoke on the personal aspects of over population and stressed the difficulties of having too many children too soon.

"THE GREEK MARKETPLACE"

Escort Service Successful

Through the month of November, the Interfraternity Council (IFC) Escort Service has maintained an average of ten calls per night, according to IFC advisor Harris Sheldon.

"I am very pleased with the program. Fraternities have demonstrated their desire to contribute to the university in a meaningful way and women students may now feel somewhat secure in traveling on campus at night. This is only one small part of a total effort on the part of fraternities to participate fully in university life," said Sheldon.

Student Government Vice President Ray Gross praised the program. "I think it is a great idea. There is obviously a shortage of security people on campus and the lighting is often poor; this service fills that void," Gross said.

Established in early October after a series of assaults on lone women and a murder rocked the campus, the IFC Escort Service operates from 7 p.m. to midnight, Sunday through Thursday. Women wishing to use the service can call 599-4725 after 7 p.m.

Fraternities Serve Community

By Larry Atchey
and Dan McGehee
Special Contributors

The consensus of opinion among the majority of Florida State students is that fraternities exist as mere social groups with no purpose or goal. However, it has been the heritage of fraternity members to devote themselves to the community and institution first, fraternity second, and themselves last. A poll was taken among the fraternities to determine what has been done and what will be done in the area of social service.

Much of fraternity work is concerned with the youth in the Tallahassee area. Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Delta Theta and Beta Theta Pi are working in the Gadsden County Tutorial Program. This program is intended to help slow learners in elementary school.

The underprivileged children of this area are in for a good time during this holiday season, for many fraternities are having Christmas parties for them. Phi Delta Theta, working with Delta Gamma, is planning a party for a group of children this Sunday. Sigma Chi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Pi Kappa Phi are making preparations for similar parties.

In addition to the Christmas parties, several fraternities have been collecting food, toys and clothing for many local underprivileged children and for Vietnamese orphans.

Sigma Phi Epsilon sponsored a clothing drive for the children of Vietnam, and in addition each of their pledge classes have donated food. Sigma Nu worked with the U.S. Marines collecting Toys for Tots. Alpha Tau Omega plans to make toys for the children at the Sunland Hospital in Tallahassee.

While the children have received most of the attention, the community has also benefited from fraternity service. Services that fraternities have rendered to the community include blood drives by Beta Theta Pi, Pi Kappa Phi and Phi Gamma Delta. Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledges helped clean up the New Hope Pentacostal Church day-care center. Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon are planning to participate in the upcoming heart, cancer and March of Dimes drive.

The Chi Phis and their little sisters have just completed a course in civil defense and hope to transmit the benefits of this course to the university community.

Flambeau SPORTS

106-70 Count

Cagers Rip Biscayne

With Vernell Ellzy's great second-half barrage to lead the way, the 14th-ranked basketball team from Florida State won its second game of the season before a home crowd in Tully Gym last night, 106-70.

Leading by only three points with five minutes gone in the second stanza, Ellzy hit five of the Seminoles' next six field goals to rush them back on top. Ellzy finished the half with a total of 24 points and ended the game with 35.

Biscayne saw its only lead of the night, a 6-5 margin early in the contest, slip into oblivion as the Seminoles, behind Ellzy, Rowland Garrett and Ron King, shot themselves out to as much as a 21-point lead before going into the half with a 52-37 edge.

However, Biscayne came out in the second half and scored the first six points and 12 of the first 13 in a period of three minutes to cut that 15-point margin down to four.

But when Ellzy hit the Seminoles' first field goal of the half with 16:30 left, it sprang the Tribe out and from that point on Biscayne never was a serious challenger for the lead.

The Seminoles proceeded to pull away steadily after this and had their biggest lead of the night at the final buzzer.

The win was the second for FSU, which had won its opener on the road against a tough Texas team, while the loss for Biscayne made a shambles of their efforts to go "big time." The Bobcats lost to Jacksonville Tuesday 133-88 so their record now stands at 0-2.

Besides Ellzy, four other Seminoles hit in double figures. Big 6-11 Reggie "Tree" Royals hit 15 before fouling out with around one minute left in the game.

Ron King, another of the top sophomores on this year's team, scored 13 while Ron Harris, a starter on last season's 23-3 team, had 11 and junior forward Rowland Garrett was good for 10.

Ellzy also put on a spectacular show under the boards, hauling in 16 while three other Seminoles snared more than 10 caroms; Royals 12, Harris 11 and Garrett 10.

Biscayne was led by Steve Brady who scored 19 for his evening's efforts. Other Bobcats to hit in double figures were Jim McCloud (16), John Gay (15) and Bob Cook (10).

The Seminoles, as a team, were sparkling as they hit on 54 percent of their field goals while connecting on 26 of 37 foul shots for 70 percent. Biscayne, on the other hand, had an extremely poor night from the field, hitting only 30 percent.

One of the more unnoticed features of the game was the play of 5-7 guard Otto Petty, who is supposed to be the substitute for injured Skip Young. He played spectacular basketball, making 14 assists, many on great passes to Ellzy and Royals.

FSU will put its perfect on the line Saturday night in Tully Gym when the University of South Dakota invades Tallahassee at 7:30 p.m.

Garnet And Gold Meet Held Today

The annual Garnet and Gold swim meet begins at 2 p.m. today, giving the public its first look at Coach Bim Stults' tankers. The meet will be held at the University Union pool.

Stults, in his 22nd year as head coach, rates the meet as a very close match; he has split the squads as equally as possible. The meet will be watched closely, as it may determine who swims in the opening meet against Evansville.

The Garnet team may have a slight edge in the presence of all-Americans Phil Boggs, a senior diver, and Dean Jerger, another senior specializing in freestyle. Jerger will captain the Garnet squad.

Terry Maxhimer will be leader of the Gold team, which also includes Mark Jenkins, Marc Middleton and Michael Seelie.

The meet will be a preparatory event for the Dec. 16 opener against Evansville.

Tribe Busy Over Holidays

With a high ranking in the nation and a tough schedule ahead, the Florida State basketball team will have a busy Christmas holiday this year as they take part in nine games including two highly reputed tournaments.

First of these contests will be this coming Saturday night when the Seminole netters play their second home game and third contest of the season against the University of South Dakota. Game time for this one will be 7:30 in Tully Gym and student tickets are on sale in Tully Gym for $1.50.

The Coyotes opened cold Wednesday night as they only hit 32 percent from the field and lost to Montana by a score of 69-65. They are led by forward Mark Wiedenfield, 6-5, and center Chuck Iverson, a 6-9 sophomore. Other starters are Bill Utecht, 6-6½ junior, Tom Resner, a 6-1 guard, and Doug Moody, a 6-5 sophomore.

ARTIS GILMORE
Jacksonville giant returns to court

Then on Monday the Seminoles take a trek into national prominence when they travel to Jacksonville to play in the annual Sunshine Classic Basketball Tournament. This tourney will feature three other teams including the no. 3 ranked Jacksonville Dolphins, a team that finished second in the NCAA last year, behind UCLA.

George Washington is another of the teams that will be seen in the tournament. The Colonials have been a crippled ball club so far this season with four of their prospective players lost to the squad for at least the first part of the season.

Southern Mississippi will also participate in the classic, held yearly in the Jacksonville Colesium. It returns several key players from last year's team including Rick Cosetto, a senior guard who averaged 15 points last season, and Tom Yachinich, the center.

But probably the matchup the 10,000 people who jam the Colesium will be seeing will be Florida State and Jacksonville. These two teams had a couple of nip-and-tuck battles last season with the Seminoles winning one and Jacksonville the other.

The Dolphins will return their nonstrous front wall of Artis Gilmore and Pembrook Burroughs, two seven-plus-footers who certainly will have to be reckoned with if they meet the Seminoles. Also returning will be sparkplug guard Vaughn Wedeking along with junior college all-America last year Harold Fox, who is destined to take the position vacated by Rex Morgan, now playing with the Boston Celtics of the NBA.

The Seminoles, then, have one more home game before the end of the quarter when they take on Valdosta State the next Saturday night, Dec. 12.

State lost three starters off last year's 19-11 team but has probably their best player coming back in guard Willie Oxford, who as a freshman averaged 16.8 per game on the varsity. The other returning starter is Marty Lehmann, a senior, who averaged 14.7 points per game and almost eight rebounds.

After students go home to enjoy the holidays, the cagers will still be hard at work making one long trip to Texas. First off they will travel to El Paso to play in the Sun Bowl Invitational Tournament. Teams in this tourney will be host Texas-El Paso University along with Miami of Ohio and another of the top teams in the nation, Southern California.

Texas will be hurting from graduation last year as they lost three players including their star guard Nate Archibald, now one of the most promising rookies in the pro ranks. Returners will be Bob Doyle, a 6-3 senior, and Dick Gibbs, the center from last year's team.

The Trojans of Southern Cal, however, will be the biggest rival for the Seminoles in this one. Two years ago they came to Tallahassee and left with a loss and last year the Seminoles made the long trip to Los Angeles and lost by three in a rather disputed game which saw five technical fouls called against FSU.

This year the Trojans return all but one of their starters and have a bright crop from their freshman squad to take his place. Rated 10th in UPI's pre-season poll and higher in many others, they can be counted on to make the Seminoles' holiday a really grueling one.

From there, the Tribe goes to

intramurals

The semi-finals of the Fraternity Division basketball tournament will be held tonight, with one semi-final game scheduled for tonight in the Dorm-Independent Division. The other semi-final game will be Saturday night, with one of the teams for this game to be decided tonight. All four games on schedule for tonight will be played on the main court in Tully Gym.

At 6:30 it will be the always-tough Lambda Chi Alpha team meeting powerful Kappa Sigma. The other Fraternity Division match will be played at 8:30, featuring Phi Delta Theta and Pi Kappa Alpha.

Phi Epsilon Kappa, who got into the playoffs via a forfeit by the Gunners who had an ineligible player, take on the Utopians at 7:30 in the Dorm-Independent semi-final match. The other game slated tonight will be at 9:30 when the Black Student Union tangles with the Rejects. The winner of this game will play Mary Jane Express at 10:30 Saturday on the main court in the second semi-final game.

The finals of the tournament will be played Monday night on the main court, with Dorm-Independent finals scheduled for 7 and Fraternity playoffs for 8.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arkansas State University's Indians are the "chiefs" of small college football.

Coach Bennie Ellender's team today took down the title of national small college foo ball champion when the United Press International board of coaches overwhelmingly voted Arkansas State the no. 1 college division team in the nation.

The Indians, unbeaten in 10 games, piled up 21 first-place votes and 318 points from the 34 members of the 35-man UPI board who participated in Wednesday's balloting.

Tampa, winner of 10 of 11 games, was runner-up in the voting, taking eight first-place votes and 279 points to nose out Montana, which had three first-place votes and 272 points after a 10-0 season.

"It's a great honor to be selected no. 1," said Ellender. "I think it reflects a lot of hard work by our players and coaches and I certainly think they have earned this honor.

"we had a lot of good fortune this season and I know we got some breaks.

PROGNOSTICATIONS FOR THIS WEEK

This week the Fearless Wonders come off a disappointing 17-7 week for 71 percent, which brings the season's totals to 342-117-5 for a 74.5 percentage. The games for this week include post-season bowl games as well as six regular season battles on Saturday.

Houston, who took Florida State apart, will be playing upset minded Miami, who knocked off Florida for their first victory after six straight defeats. The Hurricanes will try, but will not be able to pull two in a row, as the Cougars will win by sixteen.

LSU—Ole Miss highlights the SEC scene, for LSU needs only a tie to win the conference title, while the Rebels must win to tie the Bengals for SEC laurels. LSU is also looking for a berth in the Orange Bowl, and the Tigers are the choice here in a close battle, winning by six.

Tennessee, number four nationally, takes on UCLA in a big intersectional game. The Vols are riding an eight-game winning streak, and the Bruins will not break it, as Tennessee heads for the Sugar Bowl with a seven-point victory.

Arkansas plays Texas in what may be the best game of the season in college football. The Southwest Conference title and a Cotton Bowl bid are riding on this game, as neither team has lost a conference game. The Upset of the Week: Arkansas over Texas by three points in a hard fought game.

Arizona State, undefeated and ninth-ranked, will close out the regular season with a big victory over cross-state rival Arizona. The only other game Saturday will be Tulsa-North Texas State, with North Texas the favorite in this one.

In the Orange Blossom Classic on Dec. 12, Jacksonville State, 11th ranked small college, is favored to beat Florida A&M. The Rattlers from FAMU should make it a good game, Jacksonville winning by only six.

Also on Dec. 12 will be the Liberty Bowl, which features Colorado against Tulane. Colorado won the Liberty Bowl last year, and is picked to do it again, winning by ten points.

The Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl will be played Dec. 19 in the Astrodome with Oklahoma playing Alabama. The Sooners, who won 66-6 last week, are picked to defeat the Crimson Tide by a touchdown.

The Sun Bowl is also Dec. 9, and will feature Georgia Tech against Texas Tech. In a closely matched game, it will be the Yellow Jackets coming out on top, winning by five points.

The Peach Bowl, Dec. 30, has invited North Carolina, with the top rusher in collegiate football, Don McCauley, to play undefeated Arizona State. The Sun Devils are the choice to choke off the Tar Heels' rushing game and win by eleven.

Auburn meets Ole Miss in the Gator Bowl Dec. 31. Auburn is the choice to become the next Gator Bowl champion, defeating Archie Manning and the Rebels by two TD's.

On New Year's Day, the four biggest bowl games will be played as the Cotton, Sugar, Rose and Orange Bowls stage their traditional football spectacular.

In the Cotton Bowl, Notre Dame will be favored by most to defeat the Fearless Wonders' choice as SW conference champs, Arkansas. The Flambeau sports staff feels differently, as the Razorbacks pull two upsets in a row and defeat the fighting Irish, who will be defeated two games in a row.

The Sugar Bowl features Tennessee, number two in the SEC behind LSU, against Air Force. The Vols are the favorite here to win another, making it their tenth straight victory.

Stanford is the host team for the Rose Bowl, and the Indians will be trying to get back together after a disappointing finish this season. Ohio State won't let them, though, as the Buckeyes should win by thirteen.

The final game of the long season will be the Orange Bowl, played New Year's night in Miami. The Cornhuskers of Nebraska will play either LSU or the loser of the SW conference title match, Texas. Nebraska is the choice over either of these two possible opponents.

Frosh Hand GFC First

Otis Cole hit three foul shots in the final minute of action last night as the Florida State freshman team defeated formerly undefeated Gulf Coast Junior College 78-76 in Tully Gym.

The Commodores had staged phenomenal comebacks in the second half after trailing by as much as 23 points.

With eight minutes left in the contest, the score was 61-38 in favor of FSU but Gulf Coast was able to score 30 points in the next five minutes to drop the lead to six.

However, with six seconds to go and the lead down to three, Cole hit two shots to put it away.

Leading scorer for the Seminoles was Cole, with 20 total points scored, followed by Artie Fryer and Lawrence McCray with 13 each.

PREVIEW

Edinburg, Tex. to play Pan American College on Dec. 23. Pan Am had an 8-16 record last year but returns three starters and several good bench men.

The other two games over the break will both be at home against Arizona and Pepperdine. FSU okayed both these teams last year on its trip to California, winning against each.

Arizona finished with a 12-14 mark last year and will return four of its starters this season including guard Walt McKinney and center Bruce Anderson, a 6-8 senior.

Both of these home games will be free to all students and they will need only to show their IDs to be admitted.

Tickets for both the South Dakota and Valdosta games are on sale at the athletic ticket office in Tully Gym. The cost for them will be $1.50 for students and $2 for date/spouse tickets.

Florida State's freshman team will also have some big games over the break. One will be this Saturday night preceding the varsity game with South Dakota when they take on Chipola JC at 5:15 p.m. Their other competition will be in the Gulf Coast Invitational Tournament held in Panama City.

Times for all varsity games will be 7:30 p.m.

PICKING UP A BIG WIN

. . . Paul White puts in two to help the Seminole freshman team upset Gulf Coast JC last night 78-76

Leon-Terry Parker

Leon High School, the No. 1 team in the final state poll, will open up its quest for its second consecutive state championship tonight when it takes on Terry Parker High School of Jacksonville in the first round of the District One football playoff in Campbell Stadium.

Terry Parker has a 9-1 record for the season and is the seventh rated team in the state according to the poll conducted by the Florida Sportswriters Association.

Leon is led by the running of two tough backs, Mike Norman and Richard Sykes. It is quarterbacked by Mike Cooksey and is undefeated in ten games this season.

Norman is by far the leading scorer in the state this season mainly because he kicks as well as scores touchdowns. He has picked up 191 points this season, much more than a lot of teams score throughout a season.

Dorm Football Playoff

This afternoon at 2 p.m. there will be the final clash of the Smith-Kellum Dorm Football League. The game features the winners of the two dorm conferences: Smith Hall's Fourth Floor against Eighth Floor of Kellum.

The regular season of the Kellum Hall Conference came to a close with the championship team of the Penthouse Gang Division being decided when the Eight Floor, quarterbacked by Gary McKean, defeated the Seventh Floor by a score of 19-0.

In other season ending games, Tenth Floor defeated the Ninth Floor, a team which failed to win a game all season, by the score of 19-8. The team from the Fifth Floor, which was leading in its game with the Second Floor, lost by default when the referee called the clash after five members of the Fifth Floor team became unnecessarily rough. The victory was awarded to the Second Floor.

Key Injury Hits Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Darrell Royal and Frank Broyles had just about run out of words Thursday. And, anyway, they were not the ones giving out the vital information.

The really important stuff was coming from the doctors in the final hours before Saturday's Texas-Arkansas battle, the game that will decide the Southwest Conference Championship, the host role in the Cotton Bowl and the emotional status of a few hundred thousand football fanatics.

The main concern Thursday was the condition of those two folk heroes in shoulder pads—Texas' Steve Worster and Arkansas' Bill Burnett.

Their final status was about the only thing left unanswered Thursday since both teams had finished their last strenuous workouts for Saturday's contest and since both head coaches had said everything three or four times and since everybody had run out of questions to ask them.

Worster's condition was a touchy subject with Royal. The Longhorn fullback, who suffered a hip pointed against Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day, has rebounded slowly, and it appears doubtful the keystone of the Texas offense will be at full strength come Saturday.

The FSU Karate Club will sponsor the fifth Karate Skill Clinic and Promotional this weekend. The clinic will last from Dec. 4 through Dec. 6. The program will be conducted by M. Yeki, a fifth degree black belt in the sport.

There will be a beginners meeting at 7:30 Friday night in Montgomery, with an advanced show starting at 8:30. Saturday there will be four clinics, two for each group. Beginners will meet at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., with advanced meetings at 10:30 a.m. and 8:30 p.m.

The final meeting of the clinic will be Sunday at noon for all participants.

Register In Montgomery For Winter

Location for winter quarter registration on Jan. 4 and 5 has been changed from Tully Gym to Montgomery Gym and the Union Ballroom, announced Assistant Registrar Taylor Cullar.

Registration will begin at the front entrance of Montgomery and move to the ballroom for the final stages, he said. Procedure will continue as usual.

Tully will not be used for registration because the Governor's Inaugural Ball will be held there on Jan. 5, he said.

Examination periods are for two hours each with 30 minutes between exams. Except for "group examinations," exams will be held in the classroom where the sections of the courses normally meet.

Courses meeting every day at the same hour, or for more than one time period, will hold exams according to the time and day of the first scheduled class meeting of the week.

Make-up exams must be approved by the appropriate academic dean and arrangements for rescheduling exams will be made with the instructors involved. Make-ups are allowed because of illness, conflicting exams, more than three exams in a 24-hour period, or certain emergencies.

Where conflicts occur, group examinations take precedence over exams scheduled by class meeting time.

Decision Disclosed

Marshall Alters Conduct Penalties

Students To Federal Court?

By Len Majors
Staff Writer

The students brought to trial for participation in the Sept. 28 Bryan Hall demonstration have received their sentences from the highest appeal at FSU, President Stanley Marshall, but they have not accepted this decision as final, nor do they intend to let the matter drop quietly.

The suspended students charge that the university decision in their case is in violation of the First Amendment of the Constitution.

They also charge that the 12 selected for prosecution by the university were purposefully chosen because of their leadership abilities and active involvement in the "movement."

A representative of the suspended students said that because of the above, plans were now being made to take the case of the suspended eight to a federal court.

In a statement released to the Flambeau Sunday, the suspended students said, "This verdict should not be looked upon as an act of justice, but as an act of intimidation. It is not an action which punishes people for disrupting the orderly purposes of the university, but rather it is a punishment for being against the war.

"This is not the end, either of the anti-war movement or student dissent at FSU. Rather, it is a beginning, because only those who understand the nature of the power that controls their lives can ever hope to struggle against it," the statement said.

President J. Stanley Marshall upheld the findings of guilt or lack of guilt assessed the 12 students involved in the Sept. 28 Bryan Hall incident by the University Committee on Student Conduct but altered the penalties after nine of the students appealed their sentences last week. Marshall has submitted his findings to Acting Vice President for Student Affairs Robert Kimmel who will immediately initiate the penalties.

Each student had been charged with violating the following provisions of the Rights and Responsibilities of Students at Florida State:

(1) II, 4a(2), deliberately impeding or interfering with the rights of others to enter, use or leave any university facility, service or scheduled activity;

(2) II, 4a(3), deliberate interference with members of the university community in carrying out their normal functions or duties;

(3) II, 4b(1), failure to comply with directions or orders of a duly designated officer or agent of the university.

Bill Boyd, Norman Tow, Ed Archer and Dave Bouffard, who were found guilty on all three charges, were assessed immediate suspension for the remainder of fall quarter with administrative probation for two years or until graduation, whichever is less, by the conduct panel.

After review of their cases and personal conferences, Marshall has changed the immediate suspension to winter quarter and confirmed the administrative probation. "Inasmuch as the students have invested considerable time and effort in their studies for the fall quarter, it seems fairer to change the suspensions," Marshall said.

Found guilty only on charges one and two, Jack Lieberman, Seth Rose, Arthur Williams and Walter Upton were given suspension during the winter quarter by the conduct panel with the recommendation that the penalty not be executed. They were also given administrative probation as long as they remain enrolled in the university.

On the first charge, other stipulations attached to the penalties included inability to represent the university in any official function at FSU, inability to hold office prior to Sept. 16, 1971, and expulsion if the defendants are convicted of any violation of probation or restrictions. The third charge penalty included probation for two years or until graduation, whichever is less, with inability to represent the university in any official function.

Saying he found no basis for the students to not be suspended during the winter quarter, Marshall has asked that their suspensions be put into effect. He further confirmed the administrative probation with restrictions.

However, Marshall was in disagreement with the recommendation that a student be automatically expelled for conviction of any violation of probation. "Future acts should be viewed independently and not pre-judged," he said.

In the third charge conviction of Robert Hornyak, Marshall repeated his conviction that a student should not be expelled for conviction on a violation of probation without trial but confirmed the administrative probation for one year or until graduation.

James Funk, Bruce Levy and Judy McElligott did not appeal their sentences, a reprimand for violating charge three.

Visits For Leon Jail

By John Harrington
Staff Writer

A program of student visitation to the Leon County Jail has been set up for next quarter by Secretary of Community Affairs Bob Gordon.

"This program serves a two-fold purpose—it gives the prisoners the contact with the outside world that they so desperately need for rehabilitation, and it gives the student an opportunity to learn about the realities of modern corrections," said Gordon.

"The inmates of the Leon County Jail don't lack the necessities of life—food, shelter or clothing. They do lack outside outlets to combat the boredom that is inherent in confinement. This program tries to combat that boredom by providing reading material and conversation through weekly visits," said Gordon.

Gordon added that rates of recidivism—returning to prison after release because of another offense—are lower for prisoners who have regular outside contacts to look forward to.

Visits will be made on Wednesdays and Sundays from 2 to 4 p.m. and car pools are being set up to provide transportation to students who need it.

Students interested in participating in the program next quarter can contact Bob Gordon at 599-2975 or in the Student Government office, Room 337 Union.

CPE Announces New Winter Courses

The Center for Participatory Education (CPE) has announced its course offerings fot the winter quarter. Three credit courses and twenty-seven non-credit courses are being offered.

Jim Olliver, director for CPE, describes the center as an agency for students to initiate, develop, and in many cases, teach, courses of student interest not available in the traditional university curriculum.

Registration for both credit and non-credit courses can be made through regular registration. Students interested in the non-credit courses also can enroll by signing the CPE form to be distributed next week.

Class times are listed in the following schedule. Locations for classes will be announced next week.

Credit Courses

Black Theatre- THE 399 - 3 hours - a brief overview of the history of black theater and a series of discussions on current black playwrights. Taught by Marge Thomas, Tuesdays, 3:30-5:30 p.m.

Human Sexuality - ANY 399 - 3 hours - an anthropological approach to the study of human sexuality and man's attempts to explain his behavior. Taught by Jim Whittington, Tuesday, 7 p.m.

Methods in Offender Treatment - CRM 407 - 3 hours - formerly "Reality Therapy," and educationally oriented non-medical approach to individual and group counseling. Taught by Dr. Alexander Bassin, Monday, Wednesday, Friday, period 7.

Non-Credit Courses

Florida's Shadow Government -- covers secrecy in meetings and records, elections and appointments system, and lobbying. Taught by Ed Roeder, Tuesdays, 7:30 o.m.

Photojournalism - basic techniques of photography as applied to the media. Taught by Barry Mittan, Tuesdays, 7 p.m.

History of Comics - development of comics from the 1930's to the super-heroes of today. Taught by Richard Small, Tuesdays, 7:30 p.m.

Chess - the theory and basic mechanics of the game. Taught by Donald Conner, Wednesday, 7 p.m.

National Dishes - covers how to cook international dishes. Taught by Mrs. Budd Bell, Wenesdays, 7:30 p.m.

Macrame- the art of knot-tying Taught by Dann Rogers, Sunday, 8 p.m.

Organic Gardening - will provide a better understanding of the soil and how to work with it. Taught by John Brown, Sundays, 2 p.m.

Death - various psychological and philosophical aspects of death from both the historical and contemporary point of view. Taught by Luci Weber, Mondays, 7 p.m.

Zen Meditation - the goals of meditation and the techniques of concentration. Taught by Harry Knight, Wednesdays, 7 p.m.

Student Contracts Grade In Speaking Course

Florida State's Department of Communication is offering a general public speaking course with a different twist: each student contracts with the professor for the grade he wants.

"Under this contract method," said Dr. Thomas R. King, who developed the system at FSU, "each student sets his own goals for grades. The criteria for reaching these goals are clearly defined. More importantly, each student competes with himself and not with anyone else in the class."

The course COM 375, Public Speaking, is open to any student on the campus and requires no prerequisite. During Winter Quarter 1971, it will be taught by Dr. King, sixth period MWF in 207 Diffenbaugh.

Dr. King said the course was vital to nearly every student hoping to compete in today's world.

"Almost every profession demands public speaking of its followers," he said. "This is especially true of teachers, preachers, lawyers, and people in the business world."

COM 375 can be used to satisfy the liberal studies requirement in communication. COM 375 is particularly recommended, Dr. King said, in place of COM (Speech) 105, Fundamentals of Speech, for students with speech training in high school and for retired military personnel.

Under the contract method, said Dr. King, each student selects the grade he wants to make during the course, depending upon his own course load for the quarter. To receive a "C" he must amass at least 20 points; a "B," 30 points; and an "A," 40 points.

Each student is graded from one to 12 points on each speech he delivers from among a possible 10 speech types. The points are assigned according to the quality of the speech.

Additionally, each student is expected to study theories of speechmaking as outlined in the textbook, Rogge and Ching's Advanced Public Speaking.

Another unique facet of the Course is the method of handling examinations. Dr. King said students who do not score their contracted grade on tests may retake the test without prejudice.

Students can contact Dr. King for additional information in 218 Williams, or at 599-3185.

Specialized Classes In Computer Field

The Department of Mathematics, in cooperation with the Interim Committee on Computer Science Education and the Computing Center staff, will offer three newly approved courses for the first time in January. The new undergraduate course is MAT 200-C Assembly Language Programing (Compass for CDC 6400), 3 quarter hours, held at Tuesday 5 and 6, Thursday 6, in 200 Love Bldg., Nall instructing.

The section of MAT 200-A originally scheduled for that time and place has been cancelled since that course has been eliminated. Students for MAT 200-C are expected to have had previous programing instruction or experience in one procedural language such as COBOL, FORTRAN, BASIC or ALGOL.

The two new graduate level courses will be MAT 507 Applied Logic for Computer Science, 3 quarter hours, held Tuesday 7, Thursday 7 and 8, Poore instructing. (prerequisites : MAT 352, 354 or equivalent) and MAT 508 Data Structures 3 quarter hours, held Tuesday 8 and 9, Thursday 9, Soller instructing, (co-requisite; MAT 507).

According to Dr. E. P. Miles, Jr., Chariman of the Interim Committee on Computer Science Education, approval was recently given to two new two quarter sequences in Computer Science topics requiring MAT 507-508 as prerequisites. These sequences to be in the Spring and Summer Quarters 1971 are MAT 509 A, B Computer Language Structures and MAT 510 A, B Programing Systems, 3 quarter hours each.

Students wishing more information about these new courses should contact Dr. Jesse Poore, Associate Director, Computing Center and Associate Professor of Mathematics, Room 118, Love Bldg.

GRE Testing New Location

The December 12 Graduate Record Exam (GRE) testing location has been changed from Bellamy to the University School, due to final exam activities. The change of location will be posted on the Bellamy North Entrance but candidates will save some time by reporting directly to the main entrance of the University School on Call street. The exam starts at 8:30.

Selective Service Deadlines 1-A Reclassification By Deferment

The Selective Service System has announced that registrants, wishing to be classified 1-A in order to take advantage of a year-end policy of the Selective Service System, have until midnight, December 31, 1970, to file application for the change in status.

Such requests must be received by local boards by that date or carry a postmark dated December 31, 1970 or earlier.

These instructions from Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, National Director of Selective Service, alter previous policy which stated that the application had to be in the hands of local board personnel prior to a December meeting of the local board.

Registrants holding high draft numbers in the 1970 draft lottery and who choose a I-A classification would move to a lower draft priority group on January 1, 1971, with other members of the 1970 first priority group with unreached numbers.

Tarr stated that "the law allows young men to elect whether they will apply for a deferment and those young men guaranteed deferments would be able to drop them if they desire."

Tarr said the new policy was issued because various boards throughout the country were scheduling their last meeting of the year at different times. By defining a specific cutoff date, the new policy allows all registrants an equal amount of time to take advantage of the reclassification offer. 30.

Anyone interested in working for the Flambeau next quarter should come to Room 326, Union, January 5, 1971 after 2 p.m. Experience is preferred, but not necessary.

Student Senate Finances Co-op Store

By Len Majors
Staff Writer

The FSU cooperative store is closer to realization as Student Senate has allocated $7,500 to the enterprise and Don Muse, director of the co-op plans, has set an opening date of March 21, 1971.

According to Muse, the store will handle staple foods at competitive prices, dorm-dweller food items, school and art supplies at extremely low cost; and books and records at 10 to 15 percent less than students are now paying.

Student artisan items will be handled as a service by the co-op, said Muse. Students who manufacture leather goods, art work, or other items which they woule like offered for sale will be able to reserve space by contacting the store's director. The store will display the materials and collect a small fee for each sale made there.

Muse said a side purpose of the co-op will be the offering of an environmentally oriented line of products, such as bio-degradable products and soaps, and items packaged in easily disposable containers. He explained that such a program would demonstrate the practicality of selling products kinder to the environment than most of the products now on the market.

The supervision of the co-op will be entrusted to a board of directors, Muse said. This board, which will set up the initial organization and provide specific guidelines for financing, stocking and other particulars, will be composed of a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, two at-large members, and one paid general manager. Initially these directors will be chosen from those people currently active in the co-op plans, with the exception of two members who will be chosen by Student Senate.

Muse said that four committees will be named to accomplish the incorporation of the co-op, the location of the site, the establishment of the initial merchandise list, and the coordination of the efforts of this store with other co-op efforts in the area.

Students with business expertise are requested by Muse to contact him in the Student Government offices if they are willing to work in the administration of the cooperative.

The location of the co-op, though not settled at this time, will be either on or immediately adjacent to campus, Muse said. He added that several locations are already under consideration.

Muse said that the co-op will become self-supporting after the initial expenses are met, using the money allocated by the senate. Expansion of the co-op will be accomplished by the sale of memberships and/or honorary shares in the effort and the return of any surplus earnings from sales into stock expansion. Muse said that this last would be kept at a minimum due to the overall purpose of the store in reducing the cost of merchandise.

The co-op will be open to all members of the FSU community.

Day Care Center Seeks Support

By Susan Robinson
Staff Writer

The executive board of the proposed FSU Day Care Center meets with Dr. Paul Craig, vice president of student affairs, Friday to seek some measure of university support for the winter quarter. The summer pilot program was financed by Student Government.

When the board met with Dr. Craig several weeks ago, he said if we could substantiate the academic relevance of the project we would be willing to consider it," said Chris Polivka, vice chairman of the board.

"Despite the original evaluations it was necessary for us now to go out again to faculty, to students, to organizations--to see if people really were interested in endorsing the project," she said.

The schools of education and social welfare and the psychology dept. have offered support to date, as well as the Black Cultural Center and the Institute of Human Development. Additional aid has been volunteered by many organizations and individuals in the university community, said Mrs. Polivka.

Gold Key Initiates, Plus New Officers

Gold Key, national men's leadership honorary, recently initiated 16 new members and elected officers for the coming year.

Elected were John French, president, George Tragos, vice president; Barry Mittan, secretary; Doug Lawton, treasurer; and Wayne Rubinas and Dean Harris Shelton, executive council members-at-large.

"It's going to be a year in which Gold Key takes a more active role in campus activities," said President French. He added, "While we are extremely pleased with the diverse membership of the organization, we intend to continue to expand our search for leaders into all phases of campus activities."

New members initiated were Ray Gross, Bob Wurzel, Ed Stacker, Chris Brown, Frank Amatea, Bob Gordon, Mark Sussman, Sam Stafford, George Heller, Jeff Savlov, Carl McDonald, Robin Rose, Will Andres and Don Pyle.

Tutors Plan Recreation

Diane Vallella, coordinator of the Gadsden County Tutorial Program, has announced plans for next quarter's activities.

"Next quarter, in addition to our regular Tuesday and Thursday afternoon tutoring sessions, we plan to begin a program of Saturday recreation. We desperately need volunteers for these projects," Miss Vallella said.

Miss Vallella added that a table will be set up at registration to provide information to students interested in the program.

Duval Hotel Renamed

The former Duval Hotel, once the temporary home of State Legislators in the Capitol for legislative sessions, will be formally named the William H. Johnston Building in a private ceremony on Saturday.

Johnston, a Scottish-born Jacksonville businessman and sports enthusiast, gave the million-dollar facility to the Florida State University Foundation earlier this year.

Former Florida Governor Fuller Warren and Florida State Football Coach Bill Peterson will be guest speakers at the ceremony to follow a private luncheon for Johnston and friends in the hotel.

The Johnston Building now is being used for student housing and academic office space.

Silver Lake Area Closes

The Silver Lake Recreation Area in the Apalachicola National Forest will be closed from Dec. 15 through Feb. 25, according to Forest Supervisor Robert A. Entzminger.

"The reason for closing is simply a shortage of money. We are faced with a limited operating budget and we really don't have much choice. In order to provide high quality recreation experience during the heavy use season, we simply have to curtail our operation in the low use season," Entzminger said.

The entire area will be closed to public use which includes the campground, amphi-theater and the picnic area. The entrance road will be locked and a sign will be installed explaining the need for the closure.

New Contest For Poets

The national literary publication Alkahest is soliciting original poetry from college undergraduates to be included in the autumn issue covering the 1970-71 academic year.

The top two poems accepted by the magazine will earn awards of $100 and $50 respectively. All other entrants whose poems are accepted will be awarded $3.

Information may be obtained outside the Flambeau office on the bulletin board or by writing to Wesleyan University Press, Middletown, Conn. 06457.

Entry deadline is May 1, 1971.

Poem Display For Christmas Tree

What may be the earliest poem on the subject of "The Christmas Tree" to be published in America is the feature of the Christmas exhibit in the John Mackay Shaw "Childhood In Poetry" collection on the second floor of the FSU library. It appeared in The Juvenile Miscellany for 1831. So new was the Christmas tree to American children that a footnote was required to explain its original meaning.

Many poems are on display. Robert Service's poem "The Christmas Tree" tells the story of a forgotten tree which becomes a belated Christmas tree and brings much happiness to a sick child. "The Little Christmas Tree" by Susan Coolidge tells of the joy of a small tree when it is chosen to be a Christmas tree for an infant.

Little Folks and St. Nicholas, two popular magazines of the 18th and 19th centuries, are on display. They contain delightful verses honoring the Christmas tree.

Not all poets write of the happiness of the Christmas tree. The poems of Harold L. Chaffey, Lydia Ward and John A. Bridges sing the sad fate of the trees cut down and taken from their homes in the forest.

The public is welcome to view the display which will remain in the library during December.

Alpha Phis Help At Triumph House

The pledge class of Alpha Phi sorority is conducting a unique social service project this year.

Along with several of the initiated members of the sorority, the pledges go to the Triumph House every Wednesday to talk with and help the residents.

The Triumph House is a convalescent home.

According to Carol Conover, Alpha Phi pledge class president, the Alpha Phis simply visit with the residents, helping them to do little things like reading letters.

The Alpha Phis held a Thanksgiving dinner at the Triumph House, which Miss Conover said was quite successful.

"We have enjoyed working with these older people," Miss Conover said. "And I think that they appreciate knowing that younger people really do care about them."

First Christmas Told In Music

The Christmas Story will be told in music by the choir of the Thomasville Road Baptist Church on WFSU-TV, Channel 11, on Dec. 9 at 7 p.m.

Clay Brassington directs the choir in the John Peterson cantata, Born a King. The 30-minute special will be presented live at the church on Dec. 13 and repeated on Channel 11 on Dec. 25 at 6:30 p.m.

Benefit Concert At FAMU Tonight

A free expression concert will be held tonight at 7:30 in Lee Hall on the FAMU campus to raise funds for a community day for children.

The concert is being sponsored by Black Student Alliance of FAMU and the Malcolm X United Liberation Front. The admission charge is 50 cents, a spokesman for MXULF said.

The community day, which will be held Dec. 18, is designed to bring black culture to the children. Donations for the program can be sent to MXULF, 317 N. Macomb St., the spokesman said.

Happy Holidays

Seminole Cagers Outclass Coyotes

Florida State's five-ring circus went on display again last night and the outcome was as it has been in the past. The Seminoles totally outclassed the five from the University of South Dakota, 126-65, in a record-setting basketball game in Tully Gym Saturday night.

Six Tribe members scored in double figures, including three not on the starting five. Ron King, the sensational sophomore from Kentucky, let the charges with 26, all from the field, and Reggie Royals, another member of last season's sensational freshman squad, had his best game to date on the varsity, picking up 17 points and hauling in 19 rebounds.

Florida State toyed with the Coyotes for most of the first half and, using the press and fast break with great effectiveness, jumped to a 56-34 halftime edge.

In the second half, however, the Tribe played like executioners for the first 10 minutes of the half, scoring 41 to the Coyotes' 14 before Coach Hugh Durham, wishing not to embarrass the visiting crew too badly, sent in the subs to give the second stringers some valuable experience.

And that is exactly what they got as three of them also hit in doubles. Greg Samuels, the 5-9 junior college transfer, played a fine game, scoring 14 and making two assists. John Burt and Larry Gay also found the range, Burt getting 10 points while Gay scored 11 and hauled in eight rebounds.

Rowland Garrett was the other starter to hit more than 10, picking up 13 as well as 10 rebounds.

FSU played all 13 men on the bench and every one of them scored.

Otto Petty continued to impress everyone at the point with his spectacular play that netted him eight assists against the Coyotes. Also, Saturday's game marked the return to the court of Skip Young who received a standing ovation when he entered the game for a five-minute stint in the second half. In that period Young scored four and had three assists.

FSU next travels to the Civitan Sunshine Classic in Jacksonville where they will take on Southern Mississippi in the opening round of the tournament. If the Seminoles are able to get past the Southerners Monday night they will more than likely meet the no. 3 ranked Jacksonville Dolphins on Tuesday night, who take on George Washington on Monday.

Frosh Down Chipola

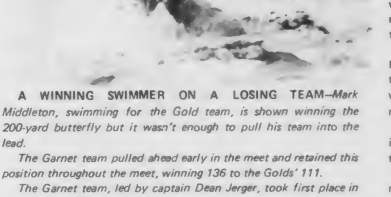

Down by two points with 12 minutes left in the second half, the Florida State freshman basketball team erupted to take an 18-point victory over Chipola Junior College 94-76 Saturday night.

The frosh were led by Otis Cole who pumped in 22 points and by Lawrence McCray who scored 19 and pulled down 16 big rebounds. Other scoring leaders for FSU were Paul White and Artie Fryer, each with 17.

Chipola, losing by two at halftime, played the frosh neck and neck for eight minutes of the second half, exchanging the lead several times. The frosh blew the contest wide open in the final minutes, however, and Chipola could never overcome the FSU charge.

The Baby 'Noles outshot Chipola in both field goals and free throws, hitting 41 of 83 from the floor and 12 of 18 from the line. Chipola could manage only 34 of 76 floor shots and 8 of 16 foul shots.

The Garnet team pulled ahead early in the meet and retained this position throughout the meet, winning 136 to the Golds' 111.

The Garnet team, led by captain Dean Jerger, took first place in both the diving events, the 400 freestyle medley, first and second in the 100-yard freestyle and the 50-yard freestyle.

Setting the pace for the Garnet team was Jerger, winning both the 100 and 200-yard freestyle events.

The Gold team, led by captain Terry Maxheimer, took first place in the 400-yard medley, second in the 200-yard freestyle, first in the 200-yard individual medley, 200-yard butterfly and the 200-yard breaststroke.

The swimming team opens its season against the University of Evansville Dec. 16, with the meet being held in the Union pool.

McQuay Left Out In Vote

Leon McQuay, who gained 1347 yards and scored 20 touchdowns for no. 2 small college Tampa, was not named in the balloting for the Florida Sportswriters Player of the Year. Winning the award was Florida defensive end Jack Youngblood.

FSU's Robert McEachern placed second in the balloting, with Joe Schmidt, an offensive end from Miami, third. Tommy Warren, FSU's quarterback, was fifth.

In the Friday Flambeau, the Fearless Wonders, because of limited space planned for today's edition, picked all the bowl games in their prognostications column. In that column Arkansas was picked to win the Cotton Bowl. This has been revised since Saturday's game: Texas is the choice of the sports staff to defeat Notre Dame.

Nebraska will face LSU; the prediction is that the Cornhuskers will win.
